WE'RE A NATION OF DOORMATS, SAYS MARGOT

Avers We "Take Laws Lying Down."

Mrs. Margot Asquith, noted autobiographer, satirist and "shocker" of British society and the wife of England's former premier, arrived in Chicago yesterday for a three days' stay. She will make the usual tour of inspection and on Tuesday evening will deliver a lecture in Orchestra hall on "People, Politics, and Events."' Mrs. Asquith has been called "England's woman of the biting tongue," as the result of her keen pictures of contemporaries, and her ability at repartee.

A Few Observations.

But seated familiarly on the edge of a bed in the Blackstone hotel yesterday, Mrs. Asquith talked amicably. She made the following comments:

"Michigan boulevard is beautiful, but, O, those frightful winking signs."

"American railroads are an abomination."

"Flappers are only a result of the war."

"All the participants in the war should cancel their war debts."

"Hughes is your greatest national figure."

"Of course I know of Jane Addams. I meant I did not know her personally."

"Americans are polite."

"There is no such thing as freedom in America."

"Wine and beer must return."

"America has not treated her war wounded generously."

"'Main Street' is well written, but somewhat tiresome and futile."

"I like American men better than American women."

She Doesn't Chew Gum.

Mrs. Asquith chatted amiably. The caustic repartee for which she is famed was noticeable by its absence.

"Please tell me something witty to say about Chicago," was her initial plea. "I suppose that is what is expected of me."

"You say that the lovely lighted tower was built by a chewing gum manufacturer? To think of it's being built of chewing gum! I have never seen chewing gum, but my secretary has promised to get me some. I chew it? Ugh, no! It is a hideous habit."

Mrs. Asquith shuddered at the recollection of her journey.

"Your railroads are an abomination. They pull and jerk one about most frightfully, but the food and service is excellent."

Women Too Well Dressed.

"I prefer your men to your women because the men are busy, energetic, and unpretentious, while the women, those I have seen, are too obviously well dressed. I have had little opportunity of seeing the poor.

"America and all other nations should cancel their war debts. War debts are followed by hate and there is nothing so unproductive as hate. To nurse the memory of what our children died for is a bad form of patriotism.

"Americans take things lying down. You are not free. There are restrictions and prohibitions everywhere. I was roused in my hotel at 2 o'clock the other morning and told my door was not locked. I can attend perfectly to locking my own door.

Prohibition Must Go.

"Wine and beer must be brought back; for it is a poor way of bringing up your young men to make them all commit crime.

"During my visit with President Harding he impressed me as being honest and sincere. His speeches lack the polish of those of Mr. Wilson. But then Mr. Wilson is above all a scholar."

"In all their terrible hurry Americans have found time to be polite to me. Even the flapper girl reporters who have packed my room and bombarded me with inane questions have been polite. So far my stay has been delightful."

TAKE $50,000 GEMS FROM HOSTESS; ROB HER GUESTS

Deal, N. J., Feb. 19.—A dinner party at the home of Mrs. Sarah H. Robertson was interrupted Saturday night by a masked thief, who was admitted by the hostess, and at the point of a revolver robbed her handbag, which she told the police contained jewelry valued at $50,000, stripped her four guests of their valuables, and escaped.

The jewels were taken from a safe in the Hotel McAlpin, New York, the day before, with the intention, Mrs. Robertson said, of placing them in a safe deposit vault.

The police learned that a woman and a man were seen near the Robertson home shortly before the robbery.

TWO PLUNGE TO DEATH IN DUEL FOR GIRL'S LOVE

Men's Battle Ends in 4 Story Fall.

Two rivals last night battled in a room for the favor of a woman.

In the struggle they crashed through a window and met death on the street four stories below.

The woman is Miss Irene Nolan, a pretty girl living in an apartment at 12 East 43d street. John Hussey, her jealous fiancé, an employé of the American Express company, lived with his mother, Mrs. Alena Wallace at 4255 South State street. James Horne, 65 years old, employed by the Independent Packing company, was a roomer in the Nolan home.

Fiancé Jealous of Boarder.

For several weeks Hussey had been growing more and more jealous of Horne's presence in the flat. He brooded over it; he accused Miss Nolan of flirting with the roomer. She laughed at him. The two men glowered when they met.

Saturday night when Hussey came to call on his fiancée he found Horne there with her alone. Angered, he upbraided them. Horne took issue with him; there was an argument, which culminated in a fist fight. Some one called the police.

First Fight Not Decisive.

They came to find both men lying on the kitchen floor, beating each other with the legs of a chair which they had torn apart. Neither was victor in that fight. The policemen separated them and made them promise to behave. Hussey went home; Horne stayed at the flat.

Last night Hussey went again to see Miss Nolan. His mother, Mrs. Wallace, accompanied him. They found, besides Horne and Miss Nolan, a Miss Sarah Cannon also known as Miss Marie Wiley and who was another roomer in the flat.

Enter the Moonshine.

Someone produced two bottles—one filled with moonshine, and the other with synthetic gin. All drank.

The two men burst into a quarrel. They called each other names; each claimed the victory in the fight of the night before.

Then Hussey repeated his accusations. Horne, inflamed, ran to his bedroom. When he came out he had a gun. He fired twice. The bullets hit the ceiling.

Wreck the Furniture.

The two men clinched. In their threshings the table was overturned; dishes and glassware were smashed; rugs were torn up; a chair demolished.

From the dining room they struggled into the parlor. There for many minutes the fight continued. The woman, screaming loudly, ran out into the hall.

The parlor, too, was wrecked. And still the two men, gasping now, fought for mastery. Nearer and nearer they swung to the big bay window which looks out on 43d street. There came a crash.

Policeman Sees Fall.

Policeman Frank Lisowski of the Wabash avenue station was "pulling a box" at 43rd and South State streets when he heard the glass crash. He looked about and saw a dark mass plunging downward. A moment later it had hit the sidewalk. He ran and found the bodies. Both men were dead, their skulls crushed.

The policeman at once called his station; then hurried back to keep order in the crowd that seemed to mobilize from everywhere.

The bodies were taken to Cummings' undertaking rooms at 4125 South State street. The Misses Nolan and Cannon are held by the police for the inquest at the Hyde Park station today. The facts were told to the police by neighbors in the apartment house.

AN HEIR AT LARGE

CHAPTER XXIV.

Henry Hornblend, seated at his desk, allowed himself the luxury of a smile. He was thinking of young Rasher's efforts to sell the Hornblend lots on commission.

"At the price I've set he won't sell one in a thousand years. Pretty soon he'll come to borrow money, and then, if I'm any judge, he'll skip out rather than pay it. That's the way it generally works with these roving mill hands, 'specially the ones that are not tied down by a family."

In view of this conviction, Mr. Hornblend was most astonished when Rasher came in a couple of days later with the joyous announcement that he had sold a lot.

"Cash, too!" he exclaimed, gleefully.

"What did you get for it?" asked the money lender quickly.

"Fifteen fifty! I make fifty dollars commission. Pretty good, eh?"

Hornblend breathed again. Rasher was not making much on the deal, particularly as the house and lot were not worth over twelve hundred at the outside.

"My boy," he exclaimed, "I congratulate you. I knew you were a clever chap."

The deed was prepared and the property transferred to a plainly dressed man who looked like a workman.

"I may move here," said the man. "Anyway, I think the lot is a good buy."

Mr. Hornblend had a momentary pang when he received the money and saw Rasher carefully fold up fifty dollars for himself. This first deal established a precedent. Hornblend was now on record as having indorsed the working agreement.

Two days later Rasher burst into the banker's office.

"Another!" he shouted.

"What!" exclaimed Hornblend, starting from his chair. One crazy man might buy a lot, but surely there were not two crazy men who would!

"Yep! And I make $800 on this one! I'll get rich at this rate, Mr. Hornblend."

The latter's emotions were stirred to the depths. All the avarice and cupidity of his nature cried out. In spite of his own enormous profit, it was unbearable that Rasher would retain so much. A damp perspiration started on his forehead. Panic stricken, he sought means to avoid paying this huge commission, but there was no way out, the legality of their compact having been established by the first transaction. With a leaden heart he saw Rasher count out the money and pocket his $800.

All that night Mr. Hornblend tossed about, and the next morning could not eat his breakfast.

But this was just the beginning.

Rasher's next transaction was the sale of twenty-four houses and lots on the road leading up from the mill toward Mary Brook's house. He gave Mr. Hornblend in cash the amount originally agreed upon between them, but would not tell his own share until the lots were deeded and transferred.

"I made over sixteen thousand dollars on them, Mr. Hornblend," he then confided.

Sixteen thousand dollars! My God! If Mr. Hornblend suffered the other night, this one was torture. Sixteen thousand dollars lost! What a fool he had been! The fact that he was receiving more than the land had ever been worth brought him no consolation. Somebody else was making too much, and that hurt him to the depths of his soul. With each throb of his heart an arrow pierced the tenderest spot in his make-up—his greed and avarice.

When Rasher again appeared with the announcement that he had found a purchaser for the miserable shacks along the river front known as Devil's Dump, Hornblend was on the verge of apoplexy. The fact that Rasher refused to reveal his own share, the amount above the agreed purchase price, ate into his heart like acid. He was sick with the fear that Rasher had made another bigger sum, and the doubt was more deadly than the actual knowledge would have been.

"I've cleaned up quite a sum, Mr. Hornblend, and I can't thank you enough." Rasher offered his hand, but Hornblend waved it away with a grimace.

It was soon after this that Mr. Hornblend received a wire from one of the trustees of the Lannard Steel company.

"Must have river frontage known as Devil's Dump. Will pay your own price. Answer at once."

Mr. Hornblend, suffering a stroke, was found unconscious at his desk, and that night Harry L. Rasher wrote in his little book another word which he crossed off.

LANDSLIDE HITS ENGINE; 4 KILLED

Swept 700 Feet Down Mountain Side.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 19.—Four employés of the Denver and Salt Lake railroad were killed when a snowslide struck an engine belonging to that road near Loop, Colo., early this morning. The men were swept down a canyon 700 feet deep.

Officials tonight said that it was probable neither the bodies nor the engine could be recovered before spring. The road is commonly called the Moffat line.

List of Those Killed.

Those killed were Paul Paulson of Denver, assistant roadmaster of the railroad; William Mongarvis, section foreman; his brother, George Mongarvis, and George Karnabas.

A. S. Cane and Thomas Conway, engineer and fireman, respectively, of the engine, escaped with serious injuries and were taken to their homes in Tabernash.

The engine had helped an east bound train over the continental divide and had started back to Tabernash. Eight miles west of Corona, Colo., the station on the continental divide, the engine ran out of water as a result of the hard work of bucking snow drifts.

Alight to Shovel Snow.

The engine was stopped and four men got out to shovel snow into the tank.

The engineer and fireman got inside the tank to distribute the snow, and it was to this that railroad officials attribute their escape.

The slide swept the engine from the tracks and into the canyon. The engine turned over twice on the way down, but the men inside were protected by the walls of the tank.

He was seated in his automobile in front of a store examining an automatic pistol when it was discharged, the bullet entering the right side of his head.

Several American doctors and two nurses were said to be hurrying by automobile to Marburg's bedside. The Americans will have about ninety-five miles to travel, having been summoned from Nogales, Ariz.

The boy was arrested, the dispatch said, at the Tokio railway station last Saturday, when Prince Tokugawa arrived home.

Girl Social Worker Leaps to Her Death

Clad only in night attire, Miss May Ginsburg, 22 years old, a social service worker and a graduate of the University of Minnesota, jumped from a window of her fifth story apartment at 4140 Drexel avenue early yesterday morning.

A policeman, finding her body on the sidewalk, commandeered a passing car and took her to the Illinois General hospital. She died just as the machine drew up before the hospital entrance.

Miss Ginsburg, the daughter of Jacob Ginsburg, a St. Paul business man, came to Chicago at the beginning of the new year to work with the Associated Jewish Charities.

Tired and Depressed.

Saturday night she expressed the fear to girl friends that she was not "making good." She said she felt rather tired and depressed. She went to her room at 1:45 a. m. and was found on the sidewalk an hour later.

Friends said Miss Ginsburg was graduated from the University of Minnesota last September. In December a friend, Miss Victoria Abramson, engaged in social service work here, wrote to Miss Ginsburg and told her of the opportunities in Chicago.

She came here and made her home at Miss Abramson's apartment in the Jordan building at the Drexel avenue address.

At the same apartment were Miss Martha Abramson, sister of Victoria; Miss Jeannette Gross of St. Paul, and Miss Sophia Sacks of Minneapolis, visitors. Saturday night the Misses Martha Abramson and Sacks went to a cabaret.

Cheer-up Effort Fails.

Miss Gross and Miss Ginsburg remained at the apartment. The other girls returned shortly after midnight. Miss Ginsburg, they said, declared she had the "blues." They tried to reassure her, but were unsuccessful.

The girls retired about 1:45 a. m., they said. They did not know of Miss Ginsburg's fatal leap until notified by the police.

MAKES WAR ON A RAT, BUT CAFE OWNER SUFFERS

Patrick Stenson, 946 North State street, owner of a soft drink parlor, has been bothered by rats for the last ten years.

Last night he placed a trap in his café, put out the lights and waited. Soon he heard the click of the trap. He put on the lights. A huge rat was in the trap.

"I'll get even with ye now," he yelled. He poked the rat with a stick. In walked Sergt. Michael O'Connell, crony of Patrick. What was Pat doing? So? Well, he would fix the rat. He pulled his gun and fired. He broke a chair. The bullet ricocheted and smashed a mirror.

"Seven years' bad luck," lamented Pat. "Here, give me the gun."

Pat took the gun and emptied it. Chair after chair was overwhelmed by the onslaught. When the smoke cleared the room resembled a nightmare.

But the rat had escaped.

BOMB EXPLODES UNDER PORCH OF WIDOW'S COTTAGE

Explosion of a bomb at the home of Mrs. Carrie E. McLain, 5614 South Artesian avenue, early yesterday morning brought to the police a new mystery.

The bomb was made of black powder. It was placed under the front porch. It exploded at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. McLain, an aged widow, who occupies the upper story of the cottage, was hurled from her bed. All the windows in the house were broken. The porch was demolished.

The first floor is occupied by Henry C. Harm, employed in the discount department of the First National bank. Mr. Harm, his wife, and baby were deluged with plaster from the ceiling.

None of the occupants of the house could give any inkling as to the reason for the bomb. Police think it was a case of mistaken address on the part of the bombers.

MATHILDE GETS HIS CONSENT TO WED HORSEMAN

Oser 57 and Rich, Cousin Says.

Following an all day family conference, Harold F. McCormick, multi-millionaire head of the International Harvester company, last night announced the engagement of his daughter, Mathilde, 17 years old, to Max Oser, a horseman of Zurich, Switzerland. Mr. Oser is the son of a German nobleman. According to Chicago relatives, he is 57 years old—more than three times Miss Mathilde's age.

Mr. McCormick confirmed what for three days as a rumor had created a nation-wide sensation. He came back from New York City on Saturday especially to talk with his daughter about it.

Issues Formal Announcement.

He confined himself in the confirmation to a simple statement of thirty-three words, upon which he would not enlarge:

"Harold F. McCormick announces the engagement of his daughter, Mathilde, to Max Oser of Zurich, Switzerland. This announcement is hastened a few weeks by the fact of the recent newspaper publicity."

On the heels of Mr. McCormick's announcement came the news from New York City that a correspondent of the New York Herald had succeeded in confirming it in Zurich. The correspondent stated he had visited the riding academy of Oser, near the Hotel Baur, where Oser himself admitted his engagement to the granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller.

Spring and Winter Romance.

It was Emil L. Burgy, 746 East 47th street, who operates an interior decorating establishment, who pictured Miss McCormick's romance with the Swiss equestrian as a love of spring and winter.

"Mr. Oser is not three times Miss McCormick's age, as the newspapers have stated," said Mr. Burgy, who claims to be a first cousin of Mr. Oser. "He is older; he is 57 years old, not 47. He is just my age. I am his cousin and I should know."

Friends of the McCormicks say Harold McCormick's announcement must have come only after the consent of Miss Mathilde's patriarchal grandfather, John D. Rockefeller, was gained. None had definite information to this purpose, but all stated that even so determined a girl as Miss Mathilde has been said to be would not dare go through with such an engagement unless the oil king were consulted and gave his sanction.

Think John D. Approves.

Mr. Rockefeller's antipathy to international marriages is well known, the friends of the family point out, but believe he must have given his consent or the engagement would never have been announced.

Mr. McCormick had made an engagement with newspaper men for 3 o'clock in the afternoon. He had hoped to have settled the matter in family council by that time. But when that time came he was at the home of his sister, Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine—Mrs. Emmons Blaine, well known philanthropist—at 101 East Erie street. And so thoroughly was he absorbed in the conference that he would not come to answer the telephone even for his friends.

Whether Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of the oil magnate and mother of Miss Mathilde, attended the family pour parler is not definitely known. It is believed, however, that she has not interested herself in the matter since her single brief statement several days ago that "Mrs. McCormick would not discuss the matter either one way or the other."

Left Decision to Oil King.

Friends declared that Mrs. McCormick had foreseen an obstacle in the person of her father and that she had decided to leave the matter entirely in Mr. Rockefeller's hands.

Miss Mathilde has been living with her father since she came to Chicago from the shores of Lake Zurich a few days ago. Mr. McCormick, since his recent divorce, had taken up his residence at the old ancestral McCormick mansion, 675 Rush street. Mrs. McCormick lives at 1000 Lake Shore drive.

Max Oser, according to his cousin, Mr. Burgy, must be possessed of a comfortable fortune as fortunes go nowadays." It has been stated that his income is $10,000 a year, but this apparently underestimates his wealth.

Romantic Tale of Fortune.

The story of how this fortune was acquired by his stepfather, Sebastian Oser, of the stepfather's wanderings in America, of Max Oser's birth—the son of a German of noble degree—the story of Sebastian's return to Switzerland to marry the widowed mother of Max, is romantic as told by Burgy.

"My father, Henry Burgy, was the brother of Max Oser's mother," said Emil Burgy. "Max was born in Basle, Switzerland. I was born in Geneva, Switzerland. Sebastian Oser is my god father. My father told me he came especially from Basle to Geneva to attend the christening.

"Max Oser's right name is Max von der Muehl. His father was a German nobleman, Count von der Muehl. His widowed mother married Sebastian Oser after Sebastian returned to Switzerland from America in 1865. Max adopted his stepfather's name.

"Sebastian Oser came to America as a young man some years before the civil war to seek his fortune. For a time he worked as a lumberjack in the north woods of Wisconsin, later as a deck hand on various vessels plying the Mississippi river, after a time settling down in New Orleans, where he worked on the wharves and quays as a stevedore.

Makes Fortune in Cotton.

"But the wanderlust got him again and he drifted about in the south for some time and then he learned a lot about cotton and discovered that fortunes could be made in the cotton brokerage business. So he engaged in it with two partners.

"They made money—lots of it—and then just at the close of the civil war there came an epidemic of yellow fever which carried away both of his partners, leaving him in full possession of the business. He summed up his wealth and found he had amassed about $1,500,000—a fortune in those days, regarded as vast as the fortune of Rockefeller today.

"Toward the close of 1865 he liquidated his business and went back to Switzerland, met the widow Von der Muehl and they were married. She died only a few years ago, having survived Sebastian by several years.

"Max Oser and his brother must have inherited a fortune each from their father and mother."

Mr. Burgy stopped and laughed: "You know," he said, "it is a Swiss custom that when a man serves as your godfather he is to leave you something in his will if he has any of this world's goods. I've never heard from Sebastian Oser on that score."

Miss Mathilde took a long walk in the sunshine yesterday with her friend, Miss Julia Mangold. Miss Mangold came to America with Miss Mathilde—she was Oser's bookkeeper—and the two girls are going back in May, it is said.

OSER CONFIRMS TROTH

[Copyright: 1922: By the New York Herald.]

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The engagement of Miss Mathilde McCormick to Max Oser, a Swiss riding master, was confirmed in Zurich today when the New York Herald correspondent visited Oser's riding school. About ten years ago Oser bought the establishment consisting of stables, driving arena and simple quarters for lodging.

At present Oser is living in a small apartment at 32 Muller strasse, a district largely devoted to the homes of the laboring class. Besides giving lessons in riding Oser rents horses and carriages.

The visits of the McCormicks to the riding school are remembered in Zurich. Part of the time they stayed at the Hotel Baur and on several occasions after lessons they remained for lunch at Oser's establishment.

Prior to establishing his riding school Oser had aspirations as an artist. He also conducted a riding school at Lucerne for some time. He is tall and of dark complexion. He has served as artillery major in the Swiss army, a fact which is largely responsible for his success in the riding school venture.

LIST JAZZ DANCE HALLS OF CITY AS 'MORALLY UNFAIR'

Vigilantes Explain Drive to Suppress Them.

Systematic sex education will be a feature of the threefold program to better moral and civic conditions which Philip Yarrow, field superintendent, will present to the Illinois Vigilantes association, at its annual dinner Friday night at the Hamilton club.

DR. PHILIP YARROW.

The program, Mr. Yarrow explained last night, will comprise constructive, repressive, and remedial or rescue measures. Its adoption will assure a vast uplift. It will eliminate the jazz dance hall.

"What union men might term a moral 'unfair' list is being prepared," said Mr. Yarrow, "and used with telling effect. Over a thousand individuals are coöperating in the movement against amusement places that do not bear the 'moral label'."

Specialists Give Instruction.

The sex education feature has attracted widespread interest, Mr. Yarrow said. Instruction by specialists has been given hundreds of mothers. More than 100,000 pages of accurate and inspiring material has been distributed, he said.

"That such instruction is of fundamental importance in any moral advance," he said, "is seen by federal figures which show that the average age at which boys receive their first sex knowledge, generally from an unclean source, is 10 years. The average period at which boys begin injurious sex habits is between 10 and 15 years.

"Statements to our lecturers from scores of mothers indicate that less than 10 per cent of present day girls receive their first information on such matters from their mothers."

Combat Obscene Literature.

Vicious pictures and obscene books will be combated relentlessly. There are, said Mr. Yarrow, "sufficient lewd pictures, obscene books, and vile publications circulating in Chicago to keep a small army of the unemployed busy for some time cleaning up the situation.

"While these statements sound extravagant they are most conservative. Only yesterday a 14 year old boy, a fine, clear eyed youngster, son of one of Chicago's most prominent citizens, came to my office with his father and gave us reports too startling to print.

"I can only suggest a little that he said. He said that the circulation of lewd pictures in his group was continuous and that more than half the members—boys, you recall, from our best homes—owned them and kept them in their possession. We have names of the individuals back of this nefarious business and we are taking up the matter with the proper authorities."

Mr. Yarrow said that last year the association befriended 700 unfortunate girls who were without friends or resources.

DUTY VS. THIRST; BRITISH DOCKERS TO GIVE UP BEER

LONDON, Feb. 19.—[United News.]—Sailors, stevedores, and other transport workers of Great Britain are going to try to give up beer. The Federation of Transport workers, with half a million members, has been asked to join an anti-beer boycott as a protest against the brewers' "profiteering" in its "attempt to depress the economic standards of their men and women employes."

Robert Williams, sponsor for the boycott, explains that although the wages of brewery workers are already low, a further decrease in pay is planned for March 31, and that although wages and all other costs of production have been reduced, the price of beer remains as high as ever.

The supporters of the anti-beer movement are in dead earnest, but among the rank and file there is considerable doubt whether duty or thirst will prevail. The average transport worker is fond of beer, although he is extremely peeved at the price of mild ale, which is now 7d a pint as against 2d in pre-war days.

FRATERS FLOCK INTO CITY FOR 3 DAY SESSION

Aprroximately 9,000,000 people of the United States and Canada will be represented through their various fraternal organizations at the midwinter meeting of the National Fraternal Congress of America, which will convene for a three day session at the Sherman hotel this morning. Ninety-three separate organizations will be represented.

For the last few days the officials of the different societies have been arriving in Chicago from all parts of the country. These leaders will act as delegates to represent their different organizations.

Opening Banquet Tonight.

A large banquet to be held at the hotel this evening will be the main event of the two day session. The other time will be devoted to the reading of papers or the making of short addresses on important topics of the day.

Dr. John Dill Robertson, former health commissioner of Chicago, will speak on "Tuberculosis" before the medical section this morning.

The congress will be divided into five meetings. The presidents' section holds one session, as the leader, which will be followed by meetings of secretaries, medical directors, and fraternal editors. In addition, the Fraternal Society Law association meets on Wednesday and Thursday. This section is composed of fraternal legal authorities.

Many Societies Participate.

Among the societies that will be represented are: Ladies of the Maccabees, Royal Neighbors of America, the Woodman Circle, Security Benefit association, Woodmen of the World, Modern Order of Praetorians, Mystic Workers of the World, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, the Masonic order, the B. P. O. E., and others.

The officers of the National Fraternal Congress of America are: Henri Roy, Montreal, Can., president; Harry Wade, Indianapolis, vice president, and W. E. Futch, secretary, and A. E. King, treasurer, both of Cleveland.

NATIONAL PREFERENCE and LOCAL SERVICE

The Cadillac outsells, by a volume nearly one-third greater, all other cars at or above its own price. This national preference, represented locally by over six thousand Cadillacs in Chicago and its suburbs, is primarily significant as positive proof of intrinsic merit. It should also be noted, however, that this great volume of sales bears an important relation to the service accorded Cadillac owners.

It has resulted in our building in Chicago what we believe to be the largest structure in the country devoted exclusively to the sales and service of one make of passenger cars. It has made practicable the utilization here of exceptional labor-saving machinery and special equipment developed by the twenty years' experience of a great manufacturing organization.

This places at the disposal of Cadillac owners, facilities for unequaled maintenance at costs often substantially lower than customary for even commonplace services, and provides for sustained merits of that high order which has distinguished Cadillac.

NEBRASKA VOTE WILL BE DIVIDED IN THREE WAYS

Discontent Brings Back Populism.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
ARTICLE XIV.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—There are rumblings of discontent in Nebraska, reminiscent of the advent of populism more than a generation ago, and the old parties are uncertain whether to prepare for a flood or a shower.

GILBERT M. HITCHCOCK.

Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Democrat, the first senator from Nebraska ever elected to a second term, is a candidate for a third term and is unopposed for renomination.

The Republicans are going to make a desperate effort to defeat Hitchcock and are now involved in a lively primary fight over the choice of their candidate.

Progressive Party in Field.

Upsetting calculations considerably in both camps, a new party, calling itself Progressive, has appeared in the field, is now organizing throughout the state, and is preparing to exert its influence either by putting up independent candidates for senator and state offices or by indorsing candidates of the old parties.

Right now the third party exhibits a degree of strength which excites mingled feelings of respect and fear in the breasts of the Republican and Democratic leaders. It is largely a party of protest against existing conditions, and those who fear it hope that its strength will wane with the coming of better times, which already have begun to materialize in higher prices for farm products.

Big Variety in New Party.

The new party is composed mainly of Nonpartisan leaguers, insurgent Republicans, disaffected Democrats, including some of the old Bryan following, former Populists, radical labor unionists, and a large element of the population of German extraction. Its leaders include J. H. Edmiston, former Populist; W. H. Green, former Democrat, and Edgar Howard, a close personal friend of William Jennings Bryan.

The platform of the new party declares for a multitude of radical innovations in government, including government ownership of railroads, referendum on declaration of war, national initiative, referendum, and recall, and conscription of war fortunes for payment of war debts and soldier bonus.

Will Hit Hitchcock Hardest.

Hitchcock will suffer most from the defection of German-Americans, who, though heretofore Republican, voted for him in 1916 on the score of his war munitions embargo proposal, but turned against him after we entered the war and he became the champion of the league of nations.

They are bitter on the Republicans, too, largely because of alleged persecutions by the Nebraska Council of National Defense and Liberty loan committees, which were in Republican hands.

With the women voting this time, the German element is said to represent about 50,000 votes. To the extent, however, that the Germans vote the third party ticket Hitchcock will suffer less than if they went to his Republican opponent.

Is Stronger with Democrats.

In the Democrat organization Hitchcock is stronger than ever before. This is the first time he has not had to fight for the nomination. Organized opposition to him in the party appears to have died out with the migration of W. J. Bryan to Florida. The Commoner's brother, Charles, betrays no disposition to continue the fight. Some say he wants the Democratic nomination for governor.

The candidates for the Republican nomination for senator are R. B. Howell of Omaha, who is serving his second term as Republican national committeeman for Nebraska, and Congressman A. W. Jefferis, also of Omaha.

There are numerous considerations that would seem to indicate the probability of the nomination of Howell. He is a progressive Republican and a dry, against even the restoration of beer and light wines. Jefferis is a standpat Republican and moist, if not wet, favoring light wines and mild beer.

Nebraska G. O. P. Bone Dry.

The Republican party in Nebraska is not only progressive but it is as dry as the Anti-Saloon league. Howell is known throughout the state, Jefferis hardly outside of Omaha.

From the leaders of these Republican factions one learns that Hitchcock is a candidate exceedingly hard to defeat. Howell, because he is dry and a progressive, is the only Republican, say the Howell men, who has the ghost of a show of beating Hitchcock, "who is wet and reactionary." Unless Jefferis is nominated, say the Jefferis partisans, Hitchcock will walk in with the support of Republicans, alienated by Howell's public ownership and other radical proposals.

Senator's Friends Confident.

The Hitchcock leaders, while professing the utmost confidence of victory over either Republican aspirant, would prefer to take their chances against Jefferis. Then the prohibition question would be eliminated, for if there is any difference between Hitchcock and Jefferis as to wetness it is only in degree of moisture.

If the contest should be between Howell and Hitchcock the liquor question would figure largely, with the Anti-Saloon league beating the tomtoms for Howell in a state normally dry even before the women voted, and the Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment supporting Hitchcock in connection with its campaign for modification of the Volstead act.

Inasmuch as there appears to be no prospect of Nebraska indorsing beer and light wines this year, this issue would not help Hitchcock, though it might bring back to him those German-Americans disposed to drown their grouch on the senator in visions of real beer.

Howell's Managers Name Issues.

The Howell managers do not conceal their intention of basing the campaign on Hitchcock on his opposition to prohibition and woman suffrage. The Hitchcock leaders profess to fear neither issue, citing the failure of the drys to beat him six years ago.

Advocacy of public ownership by Howell and other radical tendencies naturally appeal strongly to the new third party, and there has been a good deal of discussion of the possibility that it would indorse him in the event of his nomination. This has not helped his candidacy in the Republican primary campaign, and latterly his managers have shied away from the suggestion.

RADICAL CORK FAILS TO UNCORK FOR DE VALERA

Friends of Free State See Victory Near.

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CORK, Feb. 19.—This hotbed of republicanism reacted only moderately to Eamon de Valera's personal appeal today to repudiate the free state treaty and stand by the republic when the question is presented to the people at the polls, probably a month hence.

The enthusiasm in Cork was no greater than in Dublin, where a similar demonstration was held a week ago. The companies of the Irish republican army wearing tricolor brassards joined in the cheering at the command of their officers.

If Mr. de Valera could expect wild enthusiasm anywhere, it is in Cork. As this failed to manifest itself today there is greater confidence tonight among the supporters of the free state that the treaty will be indorsed by a material majority at the coming election. This city, where the feeling against the Anglo-Irish treaty is perhaps the most bitter, is expected to return a small majority in favor of it.

Many Come; Few Stay.

Mr. de Valera and his followers pleaded with the people of Cork from two platforms. Mr. de Valera spoke first from a platform near a statue erected by the Young Ireland society in memory of those who died in previous efforts for Irish freedom "to inspire the youth of our country to follow their patriotic footsteps, imitate their heroic examples, and become righteous men who will make our land a nation once again."

Children played tag between the statue and the platform and thousands passed both platforms, walking to and fro, while the speaking was in progress. It was a perfect afternoon and probably half the city's population came out to see what was occurring and then went on.

There was probably never more than 6,000 in the grand parade at any one time and that is one-twelfth of the population. The great majority of the listeners did not act as though agitated over the perils of life under a free state government.

Renew Allegiance to Republic.

There was response by what seemed not more than half of the crowd about the platforms when Mr. de Valera read resolutions, which were adopted with three cheers. They resolved:

"That we as citizens of southern Ireland at this fateful hour, when the rights of the nation are being surrendered and aspirations of our people are being misrepresented, proclaim that the Irish republic alone expresses the free will of the Irish people. For this reason we renew allegiance to the republic and pledge ourselves to maintain and uphold it by every means within our power."

This might be construed almost as a declaration of war against the provisional government, which is trying to establish the free state.

The vast majority of the persons here to whom I have talked say they want a return to normal conditions, and they will vote for the Anglo-Irish treaty if given opportunity to freely and secretly express their opinions at the polls.

Only One Shot in Belfast.

BELFAST, Feb. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—With the exception of a few minor incidents, the week end in Belfast passed quietly. A man named Hunter returning from church this morning was shot and wounded by an armed party in the Springfield road.

At Clones the situation now is quiet. The patrols are moving about unarmed. Members of the special constabulary who were kidnaped are still being detained at Newtown-Butler and Rosslea.

The members of the football team of the Irish republican army, recently captured at Dromore, have been ordered released by the viceroy, according to an official announcement issued this evening. The announcement adds that Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, has given assurance of the release of the kidnaped loyalists.

END OF SHERMAN ACT IS SEEN IN PLAN OF HOOVER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Secretary of Commerce Hoover's recent suggestions of activities of organized business to be regarded as legitimate are opposed by Senator Norris of Nebraska. He says the suggestions, as made to Attorney General Daugherty, would nullify the Sherman anti-trust law.

After studying the letter written by Secretary Hoover to Attorney General Daugherty relating to operations of big business, Senator Norris has risen to protest against it as a proposal to permit organized business activities which would "make the famous Gary dinners sink into insignificance" and kill competition as "dead as a door nail."

Senator Norris, admitting that Attorney General Daugherty has not committed himself to Secretary Hoover's ideas on the subject, voices the hope that he will not.

"It is quite evident to me," said Senator Norris today, "that whatever, if anything, is left of the Sherman anti-trust law, as it applies to big business, has been repealed by Mr. Hoover. If it means anything, it means that in the future no attempt will be made to prosecute big business because it combines or forms a monopoly, providing it is done according to the methods mapped out in Mr. Hoover's letter, which mean in effect, as I understand it, that business concerns that want to combine and form a trust or a monopoly have only to announce that their combination is not in restraint of trade and is not a monopoly, at least as far as can be ascertained by outside observation."

The Hoover letter referred to outlined to the attorney general certain things that, in the judgment of Secretary Hoover, corporations and organizations could do without violation of the Sherman act, and called upon the attorney general for his opinion.

PROF. MATTHEWS IN "JESTER" HAS JINGLE ON VAMP

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Prof. Brander Matthews, president of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, was lured recently into giving a contribution to "Jester," a Columbia university undergraduate publication. He delivered himself of the following:

There's a skirt around the campus
Who is up here to vamp us;
And we've got to get up early
If we want to dodge that girlie.

He was not a stalwart scrapper,
And he shrank from every flapper;
She was bound to take the doughnut—
And he got into his slow nut.

She began at once to shimmy,

WIN 10 MILE RUN FOR LIFE; BEAT BREAKING ICE

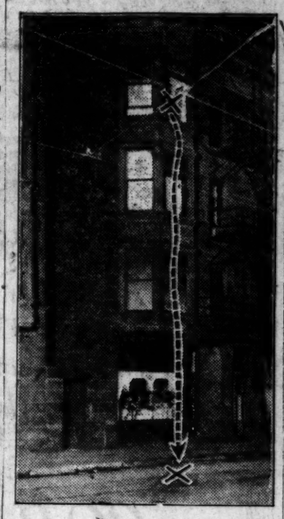

Traverse City, Mich., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Caught on an ice floe which was being driven into Lake Michigan by a southerly gale, Frank Hoard, Louis Culman, and Arthur Riant, three fishermen, were rescued from Henry Ford island late Sunday night.

When the ice began to break the three men were ten miles from land. They were forced to run at top speed to keep ahead of the breaking ice. In their flight they discarded clothing. Culman even throwing away his boots and running in his stocking feet. At the island the fishermen were cut off from the mainland by twenty feet of open water, with the ice floe traveling at a rate of ten miles an hour ahead of the gale. They all plunged and swam ashore.

They were rescued later by Lester and Archie Buchan, who put on skates and, shoving a rowboat between them, managed to reach the island.

Seated at a table with some friends, Mrs. Frank J. Burdette asked Powell about the reports that he would run against Johnson for the Republican nomination for United States senator. "I will tell about that later," said Mr. Powell. As he said this his head dropped and he fainted, dying in a few minutes.

WHY USE GOLD AS MONEY? EDISON ASKS FINANCIERS

Why Can't Real Wealth of U. S. Be Made Basis?

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Following up the suggestion of his friend, Henry Ford, for the payment of the development of Muscle Shoals by currency issued on the proposed improvement, Thomas A. Edison has sent to leading bankers and economists throughout the country a questionnaire asking if a currency based upon the "real, actual wealth of the country" cannot safely be substituted for the present money based on the gold standard.

Edison also asks why it would not be possible to make any known piece of matter a standard of value as well as gold.

Bankers and economists here today were reluctant to discuss Edison's questionnaire, but it was said that he probably would receive answers dissenting from "his views."

Demonetizing of Gold.

Here are some salient points of the questionnaire:

1. What, in your opinion, would be the approximate market value of a troy ounce of pure gold if all the governments of the world should demonetize it?

2. If the United States government were to build fireproof concrete sectional warehouses at desirable points, using therefor money received from taxation, and should receive, grade, and store for stated periods of time (say one year) selected necessities of life, issue a certificate or receipt for same, and should enact a law that the United States district treasury or the federal reserve bank might issue 50 per cent of the market value of these commodities in money (such market value being based on the average selling price over a period of twenty-five years and so indorsed on the certificate), would this money so issued be sound money? If not, give your reason.

Talks of "Promise Money."

3. Would the money thus issued be as sound as a dollar secured by, say, 50 cents' worth of gold and the promise of the government? I mean, in the ultimate analysis and not considering the gambling chance, that it is very unlikely that every one would want their gold at once.

4. The subject matter of Andrew D. White's work called "Fiat Money Inflation in France" is used as a terrible example. Is it not true that there are two sides to this question, of which White gives only one side? France, just before the issue of assignats, was hopelessly bankrupt and would have been worse off without assignats than pensations for the depreciation of assignats, which ultimately caused France to become one of the richest nations. The fiat money of our revolution became worthless directly and 1,000 per cent good indirectly. This is no argument for fiat money, as, in my opinion, all general money within a country should have practically twice the value of its par behind it.

Germany Versus America.

5. Germany has issued and is now issuing enormous quantities of fiat money. This appears to be serious. Yet all her people are working furiously. America, it is said, has no fiat money. Four million men are idle, living off the workers, and we have depression in business. The same case in England. Point out why this is so and what will probably be the final result.

TOKIO "FALLS" TO "ENEMY" LANDING BY SEA

Air Raids in Mimic War Alarm Jap Staff.

[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TOKIO, Feb. 19.—Secret reports made by the Japanese army general staff and naval board of commands disclose that in the recent great military and naval maneuvers, called "the battle for Tokio," the city was taken by land, sea, and air by "the enemy," coming west across the Pacific.

These army and navy reports are the real basis for the unexpected opposition by Japan against radical reductions in submarine strengths proposed at Washington. They also explain the stubborn opposition of the army to the economy plans of the Japanese diet.

Three Big Points.

The secret reports on "the battle for Tokio" decide three important things. The first is that hostile aircraft soared over the city, dropping incendiary bombs at will, even on the buildings within the grounds of the imperial palace itself. These theoretically started large fires, some simultaneously, which would have destroyed the greater part of the city of approximately 3,000,000 of persons had the war been an actual one.

The second point is that a hostile army was able to pass the cordon of destroyers and submarines that theoretically lined the route all the way from Guam, and entering Tokio bay was able to land its troops and join another army, which, having landed near the base of Mount Fuji and battled its way across the Hakone mountains, already was on the plains to the westward of Yokohama.

Crack Troops "Beaten."

The third is that the crack Imperial Household troops and the lauded First division were unable to resist the attack on Tokio itself and slowly retreated, with bitter fighting in the streets themselves, losing all the palaces and the embassy district.

According to the plans drawn up the final and decisive fight was to have taken place along the Shinagawa to the westward of Tokio and the city saved. But was it saved? It was not.

One needed only to have been in the Hibiya park neighborhood on that memorable Sunday afternoon, the last of the ten days of the maneuvers, and to possess some slight knowledge of military matters to know the actual result. Exhausted, shattered infantry dragged its way across the bridges over the canals from Shimbashi northward, with regiments of silent artillery scampering affrighted through the streets, and once they were across the canals engineers, following in their wake with the weak infantry rear guard applied theoretical bombs to the bridges, on the east side of which the artillery took stand and with dummy shells loaded, fired, swabbed and reloaded for an hour or more and then slunk away into the darkness of the winter evening.

Battle in Air.

The first battle of the mimic warfare occurred in the air over the Hakone mountains. Bravely a great fleet of aircraft sailed out of Tokio in goose-flight formation to meet the enemy. Some of these are still lying actual wrecks in the rough country around Lake Hakone, while many others must theoretically have been shot down, for a day later the guard patrolling the city of Tokio itself was painfully small, and the next day came other craft dropping bombs at will over the city.

These bombs were parachutes with a flag attached, and where they fell a hit was registered. The newspapers were not permitted to publish where the bombs fell, but when a protest was made from the imperial household that the practice of bombing the palace must hereafter be abandoned, every one knew that a direct hit had been made on one of the grand structures within the double moats and secure walls.

But the greatest mystery was in the night air attack on Tokio.

Then came the night attack by sea in Tokio bay, when submarines, destroyers, and other auxiliary craft scurried out to meet it. Searchlights flashed throughout the night, and the blinkers sent ever-changing orders and signals. Next morning one heard that the invading army had landed, and not only had landed but actually had joined the army that for a week had been battling its way across the mountains and was now within long range gunshot of Tokio itself. Then the city rapidly "fell."

TREACHERY IN MEXICO

2—Gen Alberto Salazar was arrested at Torreon charged with aiding uprisings.

3—Revolts in Chihuahua are reported, but they are making no headway, the Mexican government says.

4—The Mexicans say they are expecting no attack on Juarez, but the Americans in El Paso are reported to be ready in case firing begins across the river.

OBREGON LEADER DRIVES REBELS INTO MOUNTAINS

Coahuila Outlaws Emulate Pancho Villa.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Mexico City, Feb. 19.—Gen. Estrada, former minister of war in the Obregon cabinet, has taken charge of fighting the revolution in the state of Michoacan. He has begun an active campaign of rapid movement from one part of the state to the other. The rebels have been driven into the mountains.

The importance of the struggle there is indicated by the fact that 800,000 pesos [$400,000] were placed at the disposition of Gen. Estrada for war purposes in the state by President Obregon, who considers the war campaign in Michoacan above every other movement. The money was sent to Gen. Estrada on Saturday by the national treasurer.

Manuel Carduno, rebel leader in the state of Coahuila, is imitating Pancho Villa. He offers to surrender if appointed head of the rural police in the district of Muzquiz, and is given heavy sums of money and land. Other rebel leaders in Coahuila are making a similar offer. The governor has refused their propositions.

Puebla Still in Confusion.

In Puebla the situation practically is unchanged. The state legislature at San Marcos is gathering information for impeachment of the state governor, Sanches. The workingmen's union is siding with the governor. Federal troops are stationed in Puebla.

Gen. Calles, minister of interior, representing his office and President Obregon, is handling the situation. Representatives of both sides in the Puebla congress are visiting President Obregon at Vera Cruz.

It was reported here today that Nicolas Rodriguez and Rosalio Hernandez were attempting to unite with the forces of Manuel Gutierrez. This would make some 500 men. Stations and railway lines are guarded. Federal soldiers arriving on the scene were dispatched in pursuit of the rebels.

Goes to See Obregon.

Gen. Cardenas, in charge of the federal forces in Michoacan, passed through Mexico City last night on his way to Vera Cruz to consult President Obregon on the Michoacan situation. Reports are that the rebel leader, Guizar, was defeated by Gen. Beimar at Ario.

Expert Instructor
TO TEACH
J. Louis Guyon
THE FOX TROT

Since its introduction, Mr. Guyon has declined to teach or permit the fox trot in his ball room, actuated by the belief that it, in common with many other modern dance forms, constituted a menace to the welfare of the youth of the country.

But since its recent public and official indorsement by the Juvenile Protective Association, he feels it would be presumptuous for the proprietor of a common public ball room to place his opinion above that of this organization of public spirited men and women or to profess a greater interest in the welfare of his patrons than is professed by the agents of this association—agents whose sole business it is to guard the pathway of the city's youth.

Therefore he has withdrawn the prohibition against modern dancing which has heretofore existed in Guyon's Paradise.

In order that he may better conduct a ball room in which modern dancing is permitted, Mr. Guyon feels he should familiarize himself with the fox trot, and for that reason desires the services of an instructor. Only applications received by mail will be given consideration. Applications should be addressed to

WHO CAUSED TAX RAISE? QUESTION OF HOME OWNERS

Where Does Money Go? Is Another Query.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The town of Jefferson has one of the lowest, if not the lowest, tax rates of any town within the city limits, yet sundry small home owners were found yesterday northwest of Humboldt park who will be forced to pay 100 per cent more taxes this year than they paid in 1916.

They say they are getting less tax money service than when they were only paying half as much. They say their alleys were kept in more sanitary condition, their pavements were cleaned oftener, the garbage was removed more frequently and their ashes were carted away with much less delay than now. They believe they should get as much—at least—for their taxes now as they received in 1916, when they paid only 50 per cent of what they will pay this year.

They cannot understand why they get so little and several asked why the huge increase in taxes, and who is responsible for it.

Some of the Increases.

One of those who will get a tax boost of 102 per cent this year over 1916 is Carsten Wind, a street cleaner, who lives at 1642 North Springfield avenue. He has four children living at home, one a soldier, who was seriously injured in the war. Mrs. Wind was at home, but was discreet enough to make no protest against taxes. This property in 1916 paid $31.77 and this year will pay $64.22.

Hans Tostesen, a painter living at 1644 North Avers avenue, is not on a public pay roll; and did not have to be so careful about expressing his opinion of the tax increase. In 1916 the taxes on his little home were $30.52 and this year they will be $61.66. That is a boost of approximately 100 per cent. Mr. Tostesen said that last year he paid around $46.

"They don't come around for the garbage and ashes now like they used to," he said. "The alleys are all filled around here with garbage and ashes. Turn around and take a look at that."

Ashes Piled in Alley.

He was pointing at an alley just across the street. It had two large piles of ashes heaped opposite the front porch of the home of Mrs. Carl Eiselman, 1645 North Avers avenue.

Mrs. Eiselman is a widow, her husband having died about two years ago. She speaks little English. Her taxes in 1916 were $21.53. This year they will be $43.45, or an increase of a trifle over 100 per cent.

A block away, at 1656 North Springfield avenue, lives another widow, Mrs Edmund Reidel. The taxes on her property in 1916 were $36.67; this year $73.25—another 100 per cent increase.

At 1700 North Springfield avenue is a frame two flat building. Its owner is P. H. Tadelski, a piano tuner and repairer. He purchased the property about eleven years ago and now has it more than half paid for.

Mrs. Tadelski was at home with her three children, of which the oldest is 14 years. In 1916 this property, according to the records, paid $55.15 in taxes and this year will pay $82.20.

Thinks Saloons Might Help.

"Taxes are getting to be a fright," commented Mrs. Tadelski. "We get $35 a month in rent for the flat above us and it has been more than two years at that price. In the meantime taxes have been going up, but we haven't raised the rent. Wages are not going up, but taxes are and we have to pay taxes on the property.

"What are we getting for our taxes? Take a look at that alley behind the house, will you? If you see anything worse let me know. Perhaps the loss of saloons has increased taxes. Now some men are drinking this moonshine and getting awfully sick and some of them dying. From what I read, it don't seem that drinking conditions have improved much; and we have to pay higher taxes because the saloons have been put out of business. At least, I think that is one reason."

Asks Who Is to Blame.

Another small home owner whose taxes, the records show, have been advanced 92 per cent, was on the war path against those responsible. To save him from political annoyance, his name will be withheld.

"I would like to know for certain who is responsible," he started. "We get almost nothing now for our tax money. Look at the streets and the alleys, and you will be frozen stiff if you stand here until you see a policeman pass by. I don't think our aldermen are to blame, but the newspapers certainly informed us that the legislators boosted the tax rates. Who egged them on? I'd like to know.

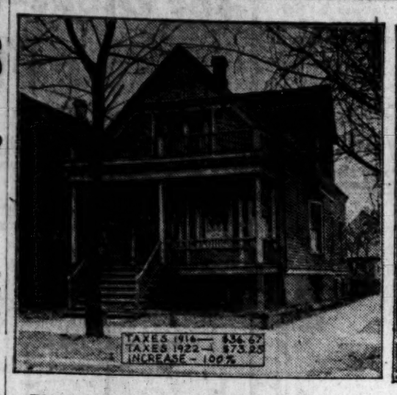

"Another thing, can you tell me why the newspapers say that the average increase in taxes is 42 per cent, when the rate increase over last year is only 35 per cent in this town and not over 37 per cent in other towns? Have they been boosting the valuation of property in addition to boosting the tax rates?"

PROTEST PARK TAXES

The Washington Park Community club, of which State Representative John F. Healy is president, will have a meeting of property owners tomorrow evening to protest against the special assessment for the extension of Grand boulevard north of 35th street. The meeting will be held at Trinity Congregational church at 8 o'clock.

"Taxes are too high generally, and I'm working to cut them," said Mr. Healy, in announcing the protest meeting. "It is awful, the tax proposed on the people south of Washington park to widen and extend Grand boulevard north of 35th street. We will have a full discussion and formulate a plan to defend ourselves in our neighborhood."

TAXES DOUBLED—WHERE'S THE MONEY?

The taxes on this home of Mrs. Edmund Reidel, 1656 North Springfield avenue, have increased from $36.67 in 1916 to $73.25 in 1922. And they seem to get less for the money than ever, she says.

Carsten Wind, a street cleaner, owns this home at 1642 North Springfield avenue. His taxes this year are 102 per cent more than in 1916.

Mrs. Carl Eiselman, a widow, will pay $43.45 taxes this year, compared with $21.53 in 1916. She looks at the ash piles in nearby alleys and asks: Where does the money go?

UNCLE JOE BIDS 18TH DISTRICT OFFICIAL GOOD-BY

Swan Song on 'Golden' Anniversary.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—"Uncle Joe" Cannon, representative in congress from Illinois for fifty years, made public today his official announcement of withdrawal from political life. "Uncle Joe's" "hail and farewell" is in the form of a letter addressed to the "Republicans of the Eighteenth congressional district of Illinois."

JOSEPH G. CANNON.

"The Illinois legislature having advanced the primary from August to April," Mr. Cannon says, "the Republicans of the Eighteenth congressional district will in two months select a candidate for representative. I will not be a candidate, and make this announcement now, that none of my friends shall be influenced by sentiments of personal loyalty to me in withholding declarations of their own candidacies or in giving their support to others."

Appropriate Time to Change.

After thanking his constituents "for their unparalleled confidence" for a full half century, and commenting on the fact that his letter is written on the "golden anniversary of his first nomination and election," Uncle Joe's letter continues:

"The great world war is ended and we will soon be at peace with all nations and peoples, with resumption of all normal conditions of agricultural and industrial prosperity at home. The Republicans have come into full control of the federal government, with majorities in congress to support the President in advancing the policies that have been so overwhelmingly approved by the American people. It is an appropriate time for old heads to give way to young hearts, alert and active minds, and vigorous bodies.

"A younger man will take my place in the house, get acquainted with the machinery of legislation, and soon be equipped to meet every emergency that may come to a representative, be it international misunderstanding or domestic trouble growing out of idealistic but impractical teachings at home.

Successor to Be "All American."

"I have confidence that my successor, whoever he may be, will not alone represent the local and perhaps selfish interests of the Eighteenth district but also the broader national sentiment and interests of the American people; for if I have been credited with supporting policies for the benefit of the whole people, regardless of section or industry, it has been largely due to the fact that I represent people who took the same comprehensive view of the nation as a whole and were ever willing to subordinate their own immediate desire to the welfare of the whole country.

"I have for fifty years had the support of the Republicans of the Eighteenth district in placing national policies above local aspirations."

MANNEQUINS, BLUE WITH COLD, DISPLAY STYLES OF PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 19.—Half clad mannequins and raw, rainy weather made the opening day at the Auteuil race track this afternoon a pitiable spectacle.

The paddock presented a grotesque sight with the race fans swathed in furs and heavy wraps, huddling about charcoal braziers and drinking hot rum, while the mannequins walked back and forth in the lightest of gossamer-like attire. Even evening gowns are now shown at the tracks.

The mannequins' arms and throats were blue with cold and very thick applications of lipsticks and rouge were necessary to maintain their complexions.

Long skirts, low waistline and flaring hats were the keynotes of the spring styles.

Test Advertising—Reasonable Cost!!

Those prospective advertisers who hesitate at a plan to advertise and to distribute nationally, should realize that test advertising may be undertaken in limited territory. Conclusive demonstration of sales possibilities is possible at reasonable preliminary cost.

For example, Chicago can be covered effectively at a surprisingly low figure, which fact should be interesting to hundreds of Chicago manufacturers whose brands have little or no identity in this, their home market.

We welcome inquiry on costs of advertising in any city, any district or territory, or to reach any class of people, any trade or industry. A preliminary discussion entails no expense.

FIVE INCOMES IN 1919 WENT ABOVE $5,000,000 EACH

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Statistics of income compiled from income tax returns for the calendar year 1919 show five personal returns of income for that year of $5,000,000 and over. The names of taxpayers are not revealed, the law requiring that income tax returns be held confidential.

There were six personal returns of income from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000, seven of income from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000, thirteen of income from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, thirty-four of income from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, sixty of income from $750,000 to $1,000,000, 129 of income from $500,000 to $750,000, and 140 of income from $400,000 to $500,000.

Incomes in Illinois Large.

Four persons in Illinois had incomes in excess of $1,000,000 during the calendar year 1919, according to an analysis of income tax returns for that year which was made public today by the internal revenue bureau.

Their normal taxes aggregated $388,460, their surtaxes $4,292,064, and their total income tax $4,680,524. About two-thirds of their net incomes were paid to the government in taxes.

Two other Illinois taxpayers had incomes of between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. Their net income was $3,179,843 and their combined normal taxes amounted to $191,326, and surtaxes to $1,933,917. Their total tax aggregated $2,035,243.

400 Go Over $100,000 Each.

There were 400 Illinois taxpayers with incomes ranging from $100,000 to $1,000,000. Illinois taxpayers in 1919 totaled 422,229. Their total net income amounted to $1,662,796,441. The total tax paid by them was $99,398,236, of which $40,449,391 was in the form of normal taxes and $58,948,845 in surtaxes.

LOEB CHIDES N. Y. JEWISH SOCIETY FOR FUND APATHY

Makes Sensational Speech at Gotham Dinner.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Jacob M. Loeb of Chicago, tonight addressed the leaders of the New York branch of the Jewish War Relief organization. The speech was delivered at a dinner at the Hotel Commodore, and Mr. Loeb's somewhat brusque "far west manner of speaking," as he himself described his words, created a profound impression.

Mr. Loeb apparently does not think New York Jews have responded adequately to the appeal for funds to relieve the distress of compatriots in eastern Europe and he minced no words in saying so. He renewed his appeals for increased interest in and contributions to the organization.

At midnight the guests had subscribed nearly $500,000. The quota allotted to New York is $5,000,000. Mr. Loeb was loudly cheered while arraigning the diners.

"Fears Effect of Speech."

"It is a privilege to be with you," Mr. Loeb said, "but the message which I bring out of the west may be distasteful in substance or in form. It may offend. It may be discourteous. It may be an abuse of hospitality.

"According to the estimate of a reliable statistician, at least one-half of the Jewish population of the nation resides in Greater New York. Not less than 75 per cent of the wealth of the Jews is within the confines of New York. That means proportionate responsibility and proportionate power to meet it.

"Greater New York has shirked her responsibility. With all her power in people and in wealth, she has failed to meet her obligations. In 1918 her pledges to the war relief fund were less than 60 per cent of her allotted quota. Again, in 1920, her pledges were less than 50 per cent of her quota. For this she stands indicted for indifference, negligence, and inhumanity. In 1918 less than 92 per cent of her pledges were collected and paid in. Again in 1920 less than 85 per cent of her pledges were collected.

He Calls It "Four Flushing."

"I know not with what dulcet tones the east describes such a performance. Among the roughnecks on Mr. Dooley's Archie road, where I spent my youth and received my early education, it was known as mouth betting and four flushing. In the west we frankly call it dishonesty. And of these things Greater New York stands indicted.

"We appeal to the Jews of Greater New York. Baiting and pogrom, brutality and massacre, pursue Jews of eastern Europe. Homeless fugitives, driven and wandering they stagger through Poland and the Ukraine. Maltreated and tortured, this is your own flesh and blood crying out to you.

"You might have been in their places. It is only by chance that your forefathers immigrated west and theirs east. Yet you are comfortable, while they suffer. You have, while they want. You scoff, while they pray. You spend while they need. Nakedness, disease, famine, and death is their lot. How can, how dare the Jews of Greater New York stand by unmoved? How dare they be deaf to the moans of the once radiant daughters of Israel, defiled and ravished? How dare they be indifferent to the plaintive wails of motherless starving children?

"The trouble with New York Jews is that they do not know their neighbors. They do not want to know them unless they are of their set. Of all men the Jew can least afford to play the snob. Victims ourselves of discrimination and prejudice, there is no such thing as a Jewish aristocrat.

"I have heard it said that the women of Greater New York are not interested in this drive. I have been told that they cannot be aroused. My informant tells me he has this from one of your leading women social workers. Has social service, too, become subservient to wealth? Have social workers lost their courage?

"If you turn away your eyes from your brothers' distress, if you close your ears against your brothers' cries, if you let your brothers perish—then you are a murderer. So beware! for the day of reckoning will surely come. On that day you will be asked as was Cain: 'What hast thou done? The voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground.'"

GET $50,000 FOR ZION JEWISH DAY NURSERY DRIVE

Approximately $50,000 was subscribed last night to the $250,000 fund which is sought by the Daughters of Zion Jewish Day Nursery and Infant Home for a new home to be erected at Hirsch boulevard, California, and Fairfield avenues. The subscription was taken at a dinner at the Auditorium hotel, when Dr. Samuel S. Cohon, rabbi of Mixpah temple, and Charles E. Virden, state agent of the department of public welfare, spoke.

There are 4,000 members of the association, which has outgrown its present quarters, 1441 Wicker Park avenue. The campaign for funds will last two weeks.

You Druggists and Confectioners Who Do Not Carry Hydrox-Guernsey Ice Cream

THE HYDROX COMPANY FEBRUARY 20, 1922

Ask Some of the Dealers Who Do

ASK them why it is that the Ice Cream business of the middle west dropped last year on an average to considerably below normal and their Ice Cream business on an average increased to far above normal.

This must be so because the Hydrox Company's business showed the biggest increase in its history and they buy all their ice cream from the Hydrox Company.

Ask these Hydrox Agencies if they do not constantly see new faces at their ice cream counter, and then ask yourself if some of these new faces mustn't be some of your "old faces."

Every day literally thousands upon thousands of people are going out of their way to Hydrox Agencies, simply because they can get this absolutely pure, very rich ice cream.

The people of Chicago are learning to take care of their health. They are learning that carbonated ice cream is pure ice cream, because carbonation prevents the dangerous multiplication of bacteria.

And they know that all Hydrox-Guernsey Ice Cream is carbonated.

They also know that it is very rich in pure cream and very delicious to the taste.

We shall be glad to establish any clean, reliable dealer as a Hydrox Agent, provided he is not too close to an agent already established in that section. Just call Calumet 5500.

John Dunn, 21 years old, 4330 Emerald avenue, former patrolman and brother of William "Sonny" Dunn, was arrested early yesterday with two others charged with attempting to rob the saloon of Patrick Monohan, 4559 Wallace street. New Ocean Current Brings Ship to Port 6 Hours Early

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Capt. Karl Graalfs of the Hamburg-American liner Württemberg today reported the discovery of a previously unrecorded ocean current setting in toward the American coast which brought his ship into port today six hours earlier than it was expected.

"Possibly a bit of the gulf stream broke off and decided to strike for the United States," said the commander.

DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

Mrs. Lena Kielsza, 57 years old, 1456 Austin avenue, was found dead in her home yesterday. Police believe that death was due to heart disease.

SUITOR KILLED

MRS. ALICE CLARK MOORE.

VICTOR SCHIRO, 34 years old, owner of a soft drink parlor at 1855 Milwaukee avenue, died yesterday at St. Elizabeth's hospital after he had been shot by his sweetheart that another might have her sole affections. At least, so say the police.

The woman, Mrs. Alice Woods Clark Moore, keeper of a rooming house at 728 Aldine avenue, is under arrest. So is Albert Schmidt, the other man.

Mrs. Moore visited the soft drink parlor maintained by Schiro Saturday night, according to George Diamiaggo, the latter's bartender. There was an argument and she departed.

A moment later she returned, a pistol in her hand. She fired twice. Schiro dropped.

At the hospital, Schiro told of his love for Mrs. Moore, the presents he had lavished on her and of her apparent rejection of him in favor of Schmidt.

Mrs. Moore admitted shooting Schiro. "I love Schmidt and we wished to be married but we feared Schiro," she declared. "And so I shot him."

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 19.—The large brick horse barn at the Indiana state fair grounds here and about 100 valuable horses were burned early today, causing a loss estimated at $200,000. Three horsemen also were burned, two of them seriously, in attempting to rescue the animals.

The dead horses are said to include sixty of the sixty-seven sent here from Camp Knox for use of batteries A and C, several polo ponies; Gov. Warren T. McCray's riding horse; The Great Rose, a $15,000 mare recently purchased by Thomas D. Taggart, son of former United States Senator Thomas Taggart, and several show horses owned by Lon McDonald, Grand circuit race driver. The horses that escaped roamed the northeast section of the city and a number had not been returned up tonight.

CONGRESS WON'T SPEND MONEY ON OLD WAR CRAFT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—Congress will not spend one dollar for the upkeep next year of old warships that are unable to contribute to national defense, Chairman Kelley, of the subcommittee on appropriation which will frame the next navy bill, announced today.

Opposing the appropriation of $350,000,000 asked for by Secretary Denby, Chairman Kelley declined to indicate how much might be cut from the secretary's estimate.

Asked how he stood on the question of turning the 540 members of the first class at Annapolis back to civil life in June, Mr. Kelley said:

"It may be hard, but the first class will not be commissioned. We will have to be conservative in cutting the officer personnel, and in this emergency cannot swap men for boys."

Do You Know What Your Name Means?

Wide interest in the meanings of names, shown by the large number of entries in THE TRIBUNE'S lucky horoscope casting contest, has led to an innovation. Day by day an alphabetical list of given or Christian names, with their meanings, will be published in this column.

Watch for your name. It has a special meaning.

The Romans had a motto, "nonum nomen bonum omen," meaning, "A good name is a good omen."

Ever since the first man was named some particular significance has been attached to names.

For some particular reason, you were given the name you bear. It may have been some incident connected with the lives of your parents.

It may express some quality of your mind or body. It may indicate the hopes for you your parents held when they so named you. And it may be you were named for a loved relative.

Your name was not picked at random. It was chosen for a reason. See what it means.

Cobb: Supplanter.

Birthday, May 24.

RESUME.

Nellie Louise De Beer: Your name combinations show you can achieve success if you desire it. Your own name indicates fame, your father's reveals that you may attain eminence, and your mother's name shows you may be a supplanter. The recurrence of these fair signs emphasizes your possibilities. You are good. Your sign is Gemini-Taurus because you are a cusp child, being born where the signs Taurus and Gemini meet. You draw good qualities from both signs, those possibilities having two-fold emphasis because of the date of your birth. You are versatile. You are gifted for success in any domain. People born under these signs are hungry for knowledge and are generally omnivorous readers.

Third Prize—$50

Mother's Name.

Catherine: Pure, unspotted.
Veronica: Ideal, saintly.
Fleming: A native of Flanders.

RESUME.

Richard Joseph Knight: You have a sunny disposition and a generous nature. Your predecessors were probably fighting men in the feudal days, being admitted to the order of knighthood. You have a fine character. You were born under the cusp of Virgo and Libra. Your birthday comes at the blending of these two signs. You therefore draw your traits from the best of the two signs. Your opinions and judgments are fair. Virgo is the seventh sign of the zodiac. The number 7 has always been regarded as important and significant. Virgo was regarded by the wise men as the harmonic of the twelve signs. You are energetic and inspired. You are honest and true.

"THIS HOUSE WILL PASS A BONUS BILL."

One point comes clear from the chaos in congress concerning the proposed soldiers' bonus bill. It is the latest statement of Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee. He says:

"We had before us this morning a man connected with the American Legion. We asked him for expert information and he gave it, and I will say that the Republican members of the committee are at work every minute preparing a bonus bill, and we will present it to a conference of the Republican members of this house within ten days. And the Republican members of this house will pass a bonus bill. That is what we will do."

That is clear enough. A bonus bill will be passed because a majority of our representatives in congress believe it to be simple justice for the soldiers, good for the country, and, therefore, good for them politically. They would not take such a position if they believed it would react to the disadvantage of their constituencies, to the disadvantage of the country, or to the disadvantage of themselves.

The only point of real argument then, the only thing really disturbing congressmen and some of their constituents, is the method of financing the bonus. Secretary Mellon, who is against the bill, has suggested several forms of special taxation. These taxes have been widely disapproved. President Harding has suggested a sales tax. Organized labor and agriculture have attacked this plan. These opponents may have power to kill the financing measures suggested. But they will not have the power to kill the bill. Their opposition will merely restrict methods of financing. Borrowing the money may be the only method left.

That also will meet opposition; but should it? The debt is a war debt. If our men had not fought we would now be meeting German demands vastly greater than any bonus.

We can borrow the money easily. We have paid off more than $1,700,000,000 of long term war debts in the last three years. And near the end of that time, according to a White House statement just issued, we have made "the most satisfactory turn in the financial affairs of the country that has been registered by a bank statement since 1919." Such facts reveal the financial ability of the United States to pay.

There is no need for distress in congress or in the country about this issue. We are going to have the bonus and we are going to finance it, if not in one way then in another. And the country isn't going to ruin under any temporary 10 per cent increase of indebtedness.

MAKING A FARCE OF JUSTICE.

Early in last September Harvey Church killed the automobile salesmen Daugherty and Ausmus. His object was to get a high priced car without paying for it. The crime was atrocious in its brutality and Church's guilt beyond question.

Five months have passed. Trial, conviction, appeal and affirmation by the review court were had in due course and last week Church was to hang. But just before the day of execution a stay of two weeks was granted pro forma to ascertain whether or not Church has become insane since his conviction.

Thus we have illustrated again our system of administration of the criminal law, which seems to have been devised for the special purpose of bringing justice into contempt, giving the guilty every conceivable means of evading or defeating punishment, and reducing the moral effect upon the minds of the criminally inclined to nothing.

Church's offense was promptly discovered and his guilt proved. Yet months have been consumed in the process of adjudging him and bringing him to punishment. Then, to cap the irony and stupidity of this travesty, he is rescued at the last moment for further delay and probably final escape from his penalty.

Meanwhile the public has forgot his offense or only dimly recalls it, and sympathy, lost to his victims, turns to the murderer.

There is no excuse for this system. Not only does it make evasion of justice easy but it deprives punishment of its influence upon the minds of evildoers. In Church's case it is inhumane even from the viewpoint of the criminal, for Church is said to have been in a state of abject fear for weeks or months and must have died in imagination a hundred times.

His case is not unlike that of Gene Geary, who slew Reckas on May 27, 1920, and after conviction was saved from the gallows by a jury who decided on Sept. 23, 1921, one year and four months after his crime, that he had become insane after his trial, and was thereupon sent to an asylum for the criminal insane, where he is now maintained at the cost of the state.

Both men were no better than wild beasts. Both slew fellow men in cold blood. Under any efficient system of law enforcement both would have been tried in a few weeks and promptly put away.

Our system puts a premium on crime and our social demoralization will continue while it lasts. It is the product partly of the professional interest of criminal lawyers who profit by making legal processes complicated and partly of the curious perversion of sentiment which so easily attaches public sympathy not to the victim of crime but to the subject of prosecution for crime, however guilty.

We shall not get rid of the mesh of complications which entangle justice until we learn to keep our sympathy for the victim of crime rather than for the criminal who confronts the consequences of his act. Our sense of justice is at fault and our sense of self-protection is asleep. We are all for saving the lives of brutish and dangerous malefactors, whereas the social conscience should demand they be put away. Insane criminals as well as sane should be put beyond the possibility of crime. Society should not be charged with their keep. The sane murderer should be executed. The insane should be treated by euthanasia or painless death.

But most important of all is to expedite justice so that punishment shall follow swiftly upon the offense. Only by prompt punishment will the law win respect and justice be feared.

Our present system is a disgrace to our civilization. It is the most urgent duty of the bench and bar to see that it is replaced by an efficient system. They owe the state leadership in this reform. Public opinion will support them if they will lead.

JUDGE LANDIS.

Judge Landis has resigned from the federal bench because there were not hours enough in the day. When he accepted the position at the head of organized baseball it was unnecessary for him to say that his new activities would not be allowed to interfere with his judicial duties. Every one who knew him knew that. But there was not time enough in the day and Landis was forced to give up his place on the bench.

He could not make ends meet with the salary paid by the government, and as a man advances past middle age he cannot feel himself justified in making no provision for old age. In these days in a large city there is no chance for a federal judge, with no source of revenue but his salary, to make any prudent provisions on $7,500 a year.

That may be possible in a rural circuit, but it cannot be done in modern city conditions, and the federal bench will lose judges who are invaluable to it and invaluable on it to their fellow citizens in the administration of justice, just as the community has lost Landis.

That loss is severe in the Chicago district. Judge Landis had a high value in these days of weakening respect for law because he represented both its justice and its strength. People almost without exception regarded the court over which Judge Landis presided as a place where justice was swift and certain. It might not always be legalistic. It might even seem eccentric, but it was regarded as entirely wholesome and it commanded respect.

Judge Landis' response to public duties outside the jurisdiction of his court was evidenced in his attempt to bring about an agreement in the building trades, and if that attempt has not yet had a full measure of success, whatever it has had is almost entirely due to the energy and fairness of the man who undertook the arbitration.

We have frequently paid our respects to the high character of this judge and it is difficult now to find any expression which is not one of regret that conditions will not permit his retention so long as his activity lasts.

NOW FOR A SUBWAY.

The city council has instructed the local transportation committee to get busy with the subway. That would be interesting if it meant that an ordinance for the building of a subway presented to the council by the committee would be passed by the council. If the council means that it is eager to start subway construction and waits only for the committee to give it a plan, then there is nothing to stop the shovels except an unwilling committee or an unwilling mayor.

The committee has been protesting its eagerness to draft a subway ordinance. The council indicates its eagerness to pass one. The city has collected the money to build. The car users cannot get service and low fares in any other fashion. Mr. Thompson can be rolled out of the way by the aldermen if they are on the square. What is detaining everybody?

GUN TOTING.

Persons who purchase weapons through mail order houses and conceal them have violated the law in having concealed weapons even if they successfully evaded local regulations governing the sale. The state's attorney has begun to take action where records of shipments can be obtained. That may slow up the distribution of weapons primarily designed for man killing and is good action to take. Complete action must be federal to restrict the manufacture and distribution.

A HARDY PERENNIAL.

Mr. Bryan, luxuriating in Florida, says that although far be it from him at this or any other time to seek an office, nevertheless if the citizens of his winter state indicate by their suffrages that they want him to be United States senator, he is not the man to refuse a call to duty.

Much as Mr. Bryan would dread it, he will be a United States senator any time any state wishes to make him one. We admire many things in this good man, but nothing more than his willingness at all times to lay himself on the altar of his country and light the fagots. It has been his misfortune that it always rains, but he never despairs.

Editorial of the Day

SENATOR KING'S SUGGESTION.

Regina (Sask.) Leader.

Again a member of the United States senate has contributed to the gayety of the nations. Senator King suggests that Canada might cede to the United States that portion of Quebec lying south of the St. Lawrence river in return for a partnership agreement covering the proposed St. Lawrence waterway. We may say to Senator King at once that his price is too high.

On the face of it the proposal to connect the great lakes with the Atlantic by a waterway that will permit ocean vessels to enter the lakes contains features that commend themselves to the prairie provinces as well as to the states of the middle west. At the same time we have no delusions as to the probability that the construction of this waterway would turn the great lakes into an "American Mediterranean." What it would do would be to diminish the rail haul and transfer costs on commodities shipped to and from Europe and the lake ports. That is something to be desired. On the other hand, the carrying out of the proposed scheme would involve the expenditure of a vast sum of money, although it is promised that in time the cost of the undertaking would be recouped through the sale of electric power. The advantages that may be expected to accrue to Canada from the construction of the waterway must be weighed in the balance with a liberal estimate of its cost to Canada before any commitment is made.

The suggestion that Canada should cede to the United States a strip of Quebec is received in this country with about as much patience as the suggestion that the United States should cede to Canada the state of Maine would be received in the United States.

HIS IDEA.

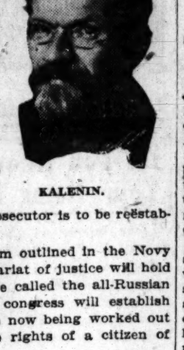

"How did Mr. Parvenu enjoy the symphony concert?" "Why, he said it shouldn't be called a symphony concert, but an earache."—Florida Times-Union.

CHEKA IN NEW MASK

BY DON S. DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

RIGA.—Members of the dreaded Russian cheka, including the chairman, Dgerinski, who are slated for retirement when the cheka is reorganized by the decree of the ninth all-Russian congress of soviets, which, at the suggestion of Lenin and with the support of Kalenin, chairman of the all-Russian congress, decided to limit the powers of this body, are able to step directly into similar offices, according to a lengthy article published in the Novy Put, the official soviet newspaper published in Riga. The Novy Put states that the office of public prosecutor is to be reestablished in Russia.

KALENIN.

According to the program outlined in the Novy Put, the national commissariat of justice will hold a convention. This will be called the all-Russian congress of judges. The congress will establish new legal codes which are now being worked out and which will define the rights of a citizen of soviet Russia.

The establishment of state prosecutors, which will also be discussed by the congress, merely restores the old offices of the imperial government which correspond to the combined functions of the municipal, state, and federal attorney's offices in America. But, according to the outlined program, the Russian prosecutor is to have far wider powers than his American colleague. He will dictate to the courts instead of having the courts dictate to him, and renewal of the office of public prosecutor in Russia seems to be nothing more or less than rechristening the cheka with a new name.

The following is an accurate and careful summary of the outline published in the Novy Put. Nothing is said in the report about the present court procedure followed in Russia. This permits the cheka and the complaining witness, who in the majority of cases is a member of the cheka, to be closeted with the court when the decision is being drawn, a proceeding which results in an abnormally high percentage of convictions being made.

"The existence of the public prosecutor, which previous to the revolution was dependent upon the courts, will hereafter assist the courts in the enforcement of criminal law," the report begins. "The courts themselves will not have such full independence as the prosecutor's office, and will no longer enjoy the complete authority they had formerly. However, they shall have sufficient authority for local administrative power.

DGERINSKY.

"The state prosecutors will be headed by an official who will be called chief prosecutor, who must be selected from the collegium of the national commissariat of justice and who must be confirmed by the all-Russian central executive committee.

"The prosecutor's staff will consist of all provincial and city prosecutors, and will be independent of all higher courts and government departments. It will have the power to propose alterations of provincial decrees and regulations which will not conflict the national law.

"If a prosecutor sees unlawful actions in a provincial executive committee he will report the matter to the people's commissariat of justice, which will in turn report the matter to the all-Russian executive committee. In this manner all departments and organs of the soviet government are subject to control, with the exception of the national soviet of people's commissars and the soviet of work and guards."

The soviet of work and guards is charged with the safety of all soviet commissars, much in the same manner as the oborona was charged with the safety of the czar's person and his officials.

"Prosecutors may also bring charges against state officials on their own initiative and on charges preferred by private citizens," the report continues. "With these broad powers, the prosecutors will also have the right to look into the affairs of private concerns in Russia.

LENIN.

"Besides these functions, the prosecutors will also be charged with investigation of the work of all investigating committees. They have the right to demand at any time any papers, books, documents, or other information which are concerned with or subject to court investigation, and to make such recommendations to the court as are necessary.

"Prosecutors have a right to control those under arrest, to parole culprits, to defend public charges, and to inspect all soviet government institutions at any time."

CHICAGOAN AIDS HOOVER

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Edwin Sherman, retired Chicago shoe manufacturer, has arrived in London to join the staff of Walter Lyman Brown, European director of the American relief administration. Mr. Sherman will deal mainly with the problem of transporting the grain now being purchased under the United States government $20,000,000 appropriation for the relief of Russian famine sufferers.

"I am appalled," said Mr. Sherman, in speaking of his work, "not only at the extent of the need itself but also at the far reaching possibilities of its effects. Speed is, of course, our chief anxiety now—to get in food grain to the Volga basin fast enough to avert further catastrophe and to get in seed grain for the spring planting fast enough to obviate the danger of such a condition recurring next year."

Mr. Sherman has already had much experience in handling such problems for the American relief administration, which he first joined in Paris in 1919, later working with them in New York in 1920. He is accompanied on his London trip by his wife, with whom he is staying at the Hotel Ritz.

ALL MODERN IMPROVEMENTS.

"They have made wonderful improvements in the automobile."

"Yes, but there still is one important feature they need that they haven't got."

"What is that?"

"They need to make them so they will shy at railroads the way the horses used to."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

JACKETS FOR THE BREASTS.

THE female breast (what the physicians call the mammary gland) may cause neuritis and neuralgia in the arms and shoulders, stoop shoulders, round shoulders, and more or less disturbance of other kinds, in the opinion of Dr. C. L. Lowman of Los Angeles.

These glands hang from the collar bone and shoulder blade and the attached muscles and ligaments which, taken together, are called the shoulder girdle. When they are heavy they drag on the shoulder girdle.

This weight, in time, may cause the shoulders to pull downwards and forwards. Round shoulders and stoop shoulders cause the shoulder blades to slide forward, throwing their posterior edges outward, producing winged scapula, or they may cause the shoulders to rear back in an awkward posture. This awkwardness is assumed in order to balance the weight in front.

Heavy breasts drag on the muscles which run to the backbone and up the neck, and cause fatigue and neuralgic pains. The weight may drag on the bursa around the shoulder, causing bursitis, and, in time, neuritis in the arms.

When girls become proficient in rowing, swimming, and such gymnasium work as that on parallel bars, ladders, and ropes, they build up the great muscles of the neck and back, and thus provide against stoop shoulders due to heavy breasts. In fact, when they spend an hour between night and morning doing up their hair, they are in the best possible way building up their deltoids—muscles which help to carry the load of heavy breasts.

It may mean that bobbing the hair in the year 1922 may mean lameness from heavy breasts in 1926.

Dr. Lowman goes a step farther than merely disclosing a condition and finding a cause. He proposes a remedy.

The remedy consists in a kind of jacket devised by Dr. Lowman.

His designs have a band about two inches wide encircling the chest and fastening in front with safety pins.

In order to provide for the movements of breathing, two elastic inserts are placed in this band, one under each arm area.

The breasts are held in cloth bags or pockets, which are attached below to the horizontal band and above to bands two inches wide, which run over the shoulders near the neck, cross each other over the backbone opposite the shoulder blades, and are pinned to the horizontal band behind.

These bands hold the breasts up and cause the weight to be carried in the shoulders next the neck, without dragging on the outer part of the girdle.

The pockets have the advantage of jackets and vests designed to compress the breasts in that the latter make considerable pressure from above, thus increasing the drag-down effect.

Incidentally, Dr. Lowman holds that we know nothing about the causes of overweight in the breasts; also, that we know of no medicine or of any medicinal method which is successful in lessening it.

BLAME THE AIR, NOT DAUGHTER.

Mrs. F. J. writes: "My daughter, 17, has been suffering with the itch for four months. Since she has had it, my son, 9, my husband, and myself have taken it.

"We have tried hot salt baths, baking soda and water, Musterole, itch ointment, witch hazel, Vick's Vaporub, mentholatum—all to no effect.

"You can see nothing on the skin, and it affects us from the neck to the ankles. We have to scratch, and then little white bumps arise, which disappear again in a little while.

"I notice in today's paper where you advise a lady similarly afflicted to grease the skin, but fail to say what kind to use."

REPLY.

Your letter started out as though your family had scabies or seven year itch—that is the catching kind.

But that kind of itch leaves its mark on the skin.

The letter ended as though the disease was winter itch.

Assuming the latter half of your letter to be right, your family all have it, not because you caught it from each other, but because you all live in the same hot, dry air.

As to the grease, I do not know that it matters what kind of grease you use, so long as it is greasy. If you are old fashioned use goose grease.

If you have the patent medicine habit use any skin ointment that strikes your fancy or that ardent advocates swear by.

The cooler and moister you keep the air in your house the less you will suffer.

Too much bed clothes and a hot bed will make you itch.

APPENDICITIS SYMPTOMS.

M. S. writes: "1. Will you please state the symptoms of appendicitis?

"2. Also inform me whether being hit on the side with a stone could cause appendicitis?"

REPLY.

1. Nausea; colicky pain, followed by a steady pain on the right side of the abdomen, low down; tenderness in this region; fever; increase in white blood cells.

2. Possible but not probable.

"YES, MY DARLING DAUGHTER."

Mrs. V. K. writes: "My daughter, 14 years old, wants to go out in a sweater, scarf, and tam. She is heavily dressed underneath.

"1. Is it healthful to go out like this?

"2. Would she catch cold if I let her out this way?"

REPLY.

1. Yes, assuming that her other clothing is proper.

2. No. Colds are caught while "in," not while "out."

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of the writers.

STREET PERMIT ISSUED.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—I wish to call your attention to the dangerous condition that exists on the southeast corner of Wilson avenue and Kedzie. Some lumber to be used in building has been stored on Kedzie and it makes it bad for people who are getting off the cars at this corner. A taxi nearly ruined itself running into this lumber last night. F. J. S.

At present there is no obstruction on Kedzie avenue. This party has a use of street permit for building material, which has been piled on the Wilson avenue side of the building.

SEE YOUR ATTORNEY.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Have obtained a judgment against the city of Chicago, dated in 1920. Please advise what steps I must take to collect it. R. I. L.

The attorney who secured the judgment for you is in a better position to advise you than we are.

WIDOW REMARRIES.

Paxton, Ill., Feb. 13.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I am a war widow and am receiving $57.50 a month from my deceased husband's war insurance. He was killed in the early part of 1918. I am thinking of remarrying. Some friends have told me that this war insurance would be discontinued as soon as I remarried. Is this true? Should I notify the bureau of the change in my name? F. R.

The insurance payments will continue. Your friends were probably confused with "widow's compensation," paid by the government to widows of men who died in the service. Your compensation payments will cease.

We would advise you to notify the bureau of the change in your name.

STUCK!

Chicago, Feb. 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Please inform me if there is a law setting certain charges which a doctor may charge for operations? If so, what would be the charges for wiring a collar bone? F. R. C.

No, the law does not fix any specified figure. In absence of agreement the doctor can collect a reasonable fee.

A NEW NOSTRUM FOR THE FARMER.

West Chester, Ia., Feb. 4.—I do not agree with your editorial "More Dope from North Dakota." While, as a whole, your editorials are analytical, comprehensive, instructive and excellent, they are often, no doubt unintentionally, arbitrarily veiled and not proportionately just to all classes. No doubt we all will admit that nearly every industrial class is necessary to our civilization as the result of centuries of adjustment, balancing, growth and regulation. But it is a fact, which you seem unable to see or are unwilling to admit, that the farmer, far more than any other industrial class, is without adequate defensive measures such as will prevent his being hoodwinked and swindled by other classes. It is a manifest flaw in our economic system, and has been from time immemorial, that the farmer more than any one else has been the economic victim of nearly all other classes. It is also true that labor as a unit has been in the past, or until comparatively recently, the servant or drudge of capital. Hence the industrial world is now aroused to the necessity of such readjustments and justice as will duly reward labor with fair compensation.

The recent gigantic and instantaneous deflation in the price of all farm products, at the dictation of another class, is proof that the farmer must and will have better control of his product prices in the future.

Government control of farm prices is out of the question, but not the judgment of an industrial state or county court. Suppose such court, after close study and investigation, should fix the cost-plus price of corn at 40 cents a bushel. Then no farmer would sell it for less than that sum. What would be the result? He would get his 40 cents, or his corn would remain in his crib, or be used for fattening live stock. Soon the court would be able to fix the approximate amount of corn to be raised any year in county and state. It would master the problem of supply and demand and in round figures would announce what amount of corn would probably be needed in county and state to meet the demand at home and abroad. But the farmer would not be forced to grow so much corn and no more. He would have the option of raising more or less as he chose, but would have to take the consequences of holding his corn in the crib if too much should be raised, or of feeding it to stock. The farmer should not be permitted to fix the cost-plus price any more than an interested party should be a juror. An industrial court or commission with branches should be established to regulate all industrial problems—a court that would become expert and be held rigidly responsible for prompt and fair adjustments. Something of this sort is bound to come in the near future. Watch it develop. W. A. G.

THE TAXATION OF TEACHERS.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—"City Pastor," in his letter published in The Tribune today, says that he cannot understand why teachers of the Chicago schools and various officials of the state should not be compelled to pay income tax. Further, he asks: "Can any one tell a good reason why teachers of Chicago schools should not pay income tax while every minister in the city pays if he has sufficient salary?"

It cannot be expected, of course, that "City Pastor" know the technical minutiæ of the various revenue acts which affected the income tax, but the whole thing harks back to a day when American orators and statesmen, including such men as Calhoun and Webster, rent the air with their arguments on states' rights, the Dartmouth college case, and the United States bank, and in a most friendly spirit of good will I courteously reply to the reverend gentleman as follows:

The revenue acts of 1917 and 1918, as well as the present act (act of 1921), were designed to get revenue, and they provide few loopholes; but to tax a school teacher who received his salary from the city, state, or a political subdivision thereof is indirectly taxing that city, state, or political subdivision, thereby raising the question of state's rights and the right of the federal government to tax the state, which has long since ceased to be an issue. Teachers who are not employed by a state or by any political subdivision thereof (Smith-Lever act), teachers get half exemption), such as, for example, those employed in private colleges or schools, must pay income tax on salary so received. The revenue laws contain no more saving clauses for politicians than they do for other taxable individuals, but it states specifically that "government employés are taxable."

SUGGESTION TO ANTI-FEMINISTS.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—In a prominent position in yesterday's paper appeared a picture of a group of college students organized into a so-called "anti-feminist" society. Evidently they were proud of the pipes which they displayed very prominently, meant to indicate that they are breaking away from the "ladylike" cigaret habit. And I suppose they are very proud of the manly courage and will power they show by doing so. The poor dumbbells! Just as if any person's insignificant weakling couldn't do that. If they want to show that they are real men, why don't they organize an "anti-smoking" society. It doesn't take brains, courage, will power, or anything else to follow along with the other misguided members of the human family who "absolutely must have a smoke" every few minutes. But it does take a real man, especially if he is of the college age, to refrain from it while they do smoke. NOT A REFORMER.

PUBLIC FAVORS BONUS, MACNIDER WIRES HARDING

Legion Leader Urges "No Further Delay."

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, telegraphed to President Harding from Mason City, Ia., today urging that passage of the soldiers' bonus bill be no longer delayed and declaring that the people of the country were unmistakably in favor of the adjusted compensation measure long pending in congress.

Commander MacNider declared that the issues now being raised relative to revenue features were raised solely for the purpose of misleading the general public as to the salient features in the bill asked by the Legion.

"The American Legion," says Commander MacNider's telegram, "speaks for nearly 5,000,000 returned service men and women and 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 more of their immediate families who do not understand first commitment and then retraction. Wherever and whenever the people of the United States have been given an opportunity to voice their feelings on this question their answer has been unmistakable.

Calls Situation Aggravated.

"Had capital and labor been drafted when men's lives were drafted the present aggravated situation would not exist. When it was a question of reimbursing manufacturers for war contracts never fulfilled requiring some three billion dollars no such hue and cry was raised. It was an obligation and it was paid. Here is an obligation no less just than that of the manufacturers, railroads and the shipping interests. Certainly their service was not so much more patriotic than that of the men who offered their lives. Should this whole generation and the next be made to feel that the country wants to penalize them for their services to their country during dangerous days? Such an impression should not be left with the country's defenders.

Opposition of "Misguided."

"We cannot help but feel that what opposition there is comes from ignorance of its cause and effect of the measure. Farm and home aid vocational training, paid up insurance, land development and settlement, all these features, are certainly going to help create more constructive citizens.

"The negligible minority in opposition can be traced in nearly every case to certain selfish interests intrenched in great financial centers, who had the most to lose financially by defeat and who profited the most by victory. They show a sordidness not in keeping with America's feelings for compensation to her veterans of previous wars.

"There has suddenly been evinced an interest in the disabled veteran from these same opponents. Where have these people been while the Legion was battling for them to overcome shameful conditions and neglect? They certainly should be interested to know that practically every bit of legislation in effect for the disabled relief was not only written and pushed but put through by the American Legion."

CHURCH LEADER SAYS HE'S NOT IN RANKS OF DRYS

BISHOP THOMAS F. GAILOR.

"I believe the eighteenth amendment was a mistake, and I believe in the modification of the Volstead law." This was the creed announced last night by the Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, president of the national council of the Episcopal church, who spoke at the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall on the "Investment of Life." His sentiments on public questions were expressed in an interview.

"I am in favor of morality, and I personally observe the Volstead law," he said, "but I am opposed to putting sumptuary laws of so drastic a character in the constitution. It partakes of the old philosophy that matter is inherently evil. I am not speaking in the interests of the underworld but in the interests of intelligent, upstanding men. When I first uttered these sentiments I had many letters indorsing my stand. Six college presidents said they admired my courage, but were sorry for me. I think a modification of the Volstead law will help."

TEST MAY SHOW MOVIE ACTRESS KILLED TAYLOR

BY EDWARD DOHERTY.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—A unique test will be made today in the investigation into the murder of William Desmond Taylor, a test that may determine the guilt of a woman of the screen.

Under Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, who has declared that a woman is at the back of the murder, that jealousy was the motive for the slaying, and that the woman is a prominent actress, will make the test.

"While I cannot disclose the nature of the test," he said today, "I know it cannot fail. If it shows what I expect it will give us a perfect clew as to the identity of the slayer and will involve the woman."

Won't Divulge Test Plan.

Mr. Biscailuz would give not the slightest hint as to the thing he proposes to do.

"The test will speak for itself," he said. "If it fails to show any evidence against the woman—and it may not—we shall try something else. But if it does show anything, it will show it conclusively, and there will be a scandal eclipsing the sensation made by the murder.

"If it shows anything, it will prove, beyond all doubt, that there was a woman in the house when the fatal shot was fired. The woman will be immediately placed in custody. Yes, I can say she has been questioned before. She is one of those mentioned in the case."

The sheriff's office, which has been working more or less independently on the murder, has been checking up on the woman's antecedents ever since she slipped into the mystery going over her history thoroughly, talking to her hordes of men friends and her scores of women friends.

Woman Led Gay Life.

They have found out, the deputies say, some shocking things concerning her, and her acquaintances in the dream city of the movies; have trailed her through many of the gayest of the gay parties in pagan Hollywood, and are prepared to deal with her accordingly.

EMPLOYMENT IN JANUARY IS LESS THAN DECEMBER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Less favorable employment conditions in January are indicated by the monthly reports of labor statistics of the department of labor made public today. In four out of fourteen groups of industries there were increases in the number of persons on the payroll, and in ten there were decreases. The largest increases were 2.5 per cent in boots and shoes and 1.7 per cent in leather manufacture. Cigar making showed a decrease of 13.6 per cent and iron and steel a decrease of 6.9 per cent

TARIFF DEADLOCK OVER VALUATION SEEN THIS WEEK

Experts to Debate Tuesday Before Committee.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Republican members of the senate finance committee hope to dispose of the tariff valuation question this week, but indications are that there will be no actual letup in the controversy until the measure becomes law. A conference deadlock with house conferees refusing to accept senate amendments is in prospect if the senate passes the bill with the Smoot plan of valuation, as now seems likely.

A final debate between rival groups of experts is scheduled before the committee on Tuesday, when experts expect to bring in a complete draft of the Smoot plan, which provides for foreign valuation as at present, but with authority to the President to change the basis to the American value on any commodity desired.

Details Still to Be Fixed.

Republican committee members have tentatively approved this general plan, but the details remain to be settled. The currency equalization scheme, part of the plan, may be entirely elliminated both because of constitutional objections and because of possible infringement upon trade agreements with other nations, as pointed out in a communication to the committee from the state department.

Experts who have urged the committee to fix the American selling price of the imported article as the basis of valuation insist that the Smoot plan will not provide adequate protection to American manufacturers and are prepared to pick further flaws in the proposition on Tuesday. This group includes Judge Marion Devries of the customs court of appeals, Thomas O. Marvin and William Burgess, members of the tariff commission, and Judge Israel Fisher of the general board of appraisers.

Smoot Plan Supporters.

The Smoot plan has the support of W. C. Culbertson, member of the tariff commission, and George Davis, special agent of the customs service, and is in line with President Harding's suggestions in his address to congress in December.

The currency provision as it now stands provides that for every per cent of depreciation in excess of 70 per cent 1 per cent of duty shall be added to the rate of duty fixed by law. The additional duty, however, is limited to 50 per cent of the statutory rate. Thus, in the case of goods from Germany, whose currency has depreciated nearly 98 per cent, the additional duty would amount to 28 per cent.

The hospital cares for 82 per cent of its patients partially or entirely free. It also furnishes patients whom it cannot admit to the hospital with nurses and internes. Because of this large amount of charitable work there is an annual deficit which the concert will help to meet.

The capacity of the hospital has recently been increased from sixty-five to 100 beds and this has added to the expense. Last year there were 565 babies born in the hospital.

Mrs. Romberg as general chairman has raised funds for the hospital for the last six years. Associated with her are three co-chairmen, Mrs. I. J. Kusel, Mrs. Gottfried D. Bernstein and Mrs. Meyer Helstein. Other leaders are: Harry Boyell, president junior workers; Mrs. J. J. Grossberg, president children's aid; Mrs. Henry Neufield, president service clubo Mrs. Benjamin Schiffman, president Mount Sinai Woman's club; Mrs. A. Simon, president northwest side auxiliary.

SHIPS SIMULATE WAR IN PRACTICE OFF CUBAN COAST

GUANTANAMO, Cuba, Feb. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—Actual battle conditions have been approximated in the work of the sailors and marines of the United States Atlantic fleet engaged in winter maneuvers here. Landing forces of 500 men are sent ashore daily from the ships in the harbor, going through the work of landing as if they were under hostile fire.

Marines, who landed a 150 millimeter gun from the battleship Florida, have mounted the piece on a tractor and have been engaged in target practice on a range so laid out that the shells fall far up in the mountains.

HARDING TARGET OF BITTER DRIVE BY LA FOLLETTE

"Pacts Make World Safe for Imperialism."

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 19.—The "twin pillars" of the American nation—freedom and independence — are today being battered down by the "vandals of privilege and monopoly, who have secured control of every branch of government and are using its great powers, both in domestic and foreign policy, to protect and extend their enormous wealth," Senator Robert M. La Follette declared today in an address at a meeting in commemoration of Gen. Frederick von Steuben, the revolutionary leader.

R. M. LA FOLLETTE. [Harris & Ewing.]

"World Safe for Empires."

The Washington conference, which he declared to have only one primary object, "to make the world safe for imperialism," was condemned by the senator, who attacked the administration of President Harding for what he said was its attempt to encroach upon congressional prerogatives, hampering the agricultural bloc, and attempting to thwart passage of the soldier bonus bill.

The people must determine, Senator La Follette declared, "whether they will return to the fundamental principles upon which their government was established and devote their lives and energies to building up a great people, or whether they will follow the path along which Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding have attempted to lead them, of becoming a great western empire, a party to the world's intrigues, hated by all peoples and respected by none."

"Harding Forgets Lessons."

"President Harding," he said, "either did not take the meaning of the last election seriously to heart or has forgotten it, for on July 12, 1921, when the bill to provide veterans compensation was under consideration, he so far overstepped his prerogatives as to appear before the senate and argue against the measure."

Discussing foreign policies, Senator La Follette said that the lesson of the defeat of the league of nations had apparently been lost on the present administration, or else, he declared, "the forces which controlled Wilson and also control Harding are so powerful that they both prefer political extinction to resistance to their dictates."

"The ink is hardly yet dry," the senator said, "on the signatures of our delegates to new treaties and a new alliance which in many respects are more iniquitous and fraught with greater perils to the United States than was the treaty of Versailles.

"It was to save taxes and to prevent bankruptcy of the British empire that all the stupendous propaganda machinery of the world was released to insure the success of the Washington conference."

White at the People's Liberal church, 56th street and Stewart avenue, started yesterday morning when Dr. White delivered the first of two sermons reviewing his work. His second sermon will be given next Sunday morning. Last evening Dr. White was the guest at a special service, at which Bishop Fallows, Prof. Shailer Mathews, and Prof. Nathaniel Butler spoke. A reception will be tendered Dr. and Mrs. White Tuesday evening in the church parlors.

U. S. WILL TRAIN BIG ARMY DURING SUMMER MONTHS

Plans Instruction for 227,000 Men.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—More than a quarter of a million men are expected by war department officials to be under canvas or in barracks this summer for intensive military training for the first time since congress welded the regular army, the national guard, and the organized reserves into a composite body constituting the army of the United States. Plans for the instruction of 227,000 men, representing the three components of the united land forces, were announced today by the department.

Ample funds for the program are expected by officials of the department to be made available by congress by that time, and while the plans are made contingent upon the amount of money appropriated, officials feel confident the necessary sum will be allowed for their full development.

Regular Army to Supervise Work.

In addition to the regular army personnel required to supervise the training work under commanders of the nine corps areas there will be approximately 160,000 members of the national guard in the field, about 30,000 reserve officers and specialists, 10,000 student members of the reserve officers' training corps, and 27,000 civilians.

The plans provide for the training of national guardsmen preferably in their own states or at the nearest suitable federal or state encampment. Wherever federal cantonments are available they will be offered to the states under revocable contracts.

Courses Limited to Two Weeks.

The courses for organized reserve personnel will be limited according to law to two weeks. Demonstrations by small units of the regular army will be staged at each training encampment to illustrate standards of proficiency in drills and tactical methods in maneuver problems.

The department announced that applications for attendance at the citizens' training camp will be accepted after April 1 at the corps headquarters at Boston; Governor's island, New York; Fort Howard, Md.; Fort McPherson, Ga.; Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.; Fort Sheridan, Ill.; Fort Crook, Neb.; Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and the Presidio at San Francisco.

TRIES TO STAB SELF TO DEATH.

Harry Weinberg, 38, 2728 Evergreen avenue, attempted suicide yesterday by stabbing himself in the abdomen. He is at the Psychopathic hospital in a serious condition.

PORTO RICO LIKE 19TH WARD IN ITS POLITICAL WAYS

U. S. Governor Fears He Will Be Killed.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 19.—The special session of the Porto Rican senate so far has not confirmed the appointments of Gov. E. Mont Reily. The governor named twenty-eight Unionists, nine Republicans and one Socialist. Commissioner of Education Huyke was reappointed after he had been driven out of the Unionist party at its convention a week ago yesterday. At that time he was called a traitor by Antonio Barcelo, the leader of the party.

Mr. Huyke thinks his enemies are plotting to kill him. At the convention a rush was made on him by men armed with revolvers, but friends intervened and saved his life. This incident reflects the turbulent condition of politics here, which are similar to those in the old 19th ward in Chicago.

Gov. Reily thinks he received about the toughest job that President Harding had to offer, but he is hopeful of bringing a semblance of harmony soon. This, however, hinges on a personal meeting between Mr. Barcelo and Gov. Reily which has been hanging fire for months. Friends tried to get President Harding and Secretary of War Weeks to bring the two together when they were in Washington, but the efforts failed.

Not Ready to Bury Hatchet.

With independence gone from the Unionist party's platform, Gov. Reily is now ready to make peace and work with the Unionists who control the majority of votes. But Mr. Barcelo says he is not ready to bury the hatchet yet. If the senate refuses to confirm his appointments Gov. Reily will go ahead indefinitely under the recess plan, but disorganization of the departments will result.

Gov. Reily has been warned and threatened many times and he is taking all precautions against being assassinated. He always travels with a guard. It has just been learned that a message passed between independents in Ponce and San Juan, after Gov. Reily had boarded a ship which caught fire during the voyage, stating "I have struck a mortal blow."

The leader of the Socialists, Mr. Iglesias, was given a big reception when he returned from a visit to the United States a few days ago. He headed a parade which marched to governor's palace and cheered, but Mr. Reily did not come out.

Speaker Collyeuchi of the house of representatives has just returned from Spain and is said to be trying to get control of the Unionist party.

When President Harding was elected and it was rumored that the Democratic governor, Mr. Yager, would be replaced by a "string man" Mr. Collyeuchi in an address in the house boasted that the Unionists would be able to control and govern any man picked as they were strong enough to hold up all appointments. This is what he is trying to do now with Gov Reily who, however, his methods may be regarded, is a strong governor and intends to remain so.

See Plot of Wets.

George R. Shanton, chief of police of the island for thirteen years, former chief of the Canal Zone and a friend of President Roosevelt, has resigned from his position on account of trouble with the enforcement of prohibition. The grand jury severely criticized him, but returned no indictment. Mr. Shanton served forty-eight hours for contempt of court.

His friends say he is the victim of a big plot to save the booze ring against which he has been active. The wets are hoping that the free state will go through, or some other measure that will allow the return of liquor, so that everyone will not have to go to Havana for liquor.

CHARGES AGAINST REILY.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Charges will be made on the floor of the house early in the week against the past life and official acts of E. Mont Reily, governor of Porto Rico, who returned to his post last month over the protests of leaders of the Unionist and Majority party of the island.

A mass of affidavits and official documents that make ugly allegations against President Harding's western pre-convention campaign manager are now in the possession of Felix Cordova-Davila, resident commissioner from Porto Rico.

Through such an investigation they hope to bring about Gov. Reily's impeachment and the passage by congress of legislation providing for an associated free state of Porto Rico with an elective governor.

Removed from Kansas City Job.

Commissioner Cordova-Davila has in his possession official records showing that in 1909 Reily was removed as assistant postmaster at Kansas City as the result of a report from a special agent of the postoffice department.

A long bill of complaints against Gov. Reily's administration in Porto Rico has been prepared by Commissioner Cordova-Davila to be laid before congress with a demand for an investigation. He will charge that in direct violation of the organic act, Gov. Reily removed two judges; that the governor had intimidated the insular judiciary and subjected them to insult; that through capricious acts he has seriously impaired the efficiency of the police; that at the instance of political friends he pardoned criminals who immediately committed new crimes; and that he has refused to recognize the Unionist party that controls 42 out of the 57 seats in the Porto Rican legislature.

A number of congressmen, including members of the house committee on insular affairs, have assured Commissioner Cordova-Davila their support in efforts to have a congressional investigation of the Reily case, and Democratic senators and representatives are preparing to attack the Harding administration for its failure to remove Gov. Reily when a delegation from the island came to Washington last December to protest against his administration.

The LANDIS AWARD and the Prospective Builders

Seventy-five per cent in money value of all building operations in Cook County is now being performed under the terms and wages of the Landis award. This includes all classes of buildings from the four-roomed bungalow to the Federal Reserve Bank skyscraper.

The Contractors' Associations aided by the Citizens' Committee to Enforce the Landis Award have demonstrated that building can proceed uninterruptedly and economically in spite of the ten unions which refuse to abide by the award.

Certain contractors, especially those operating in the outskirts of the city and suburbs, and certain speculative builders of apartments have continued their building operations with journeymen from these ten unions at the former wages and have refused to co-operate with the Citizens' Committee. These contractors are apparently putting their immediate benefits and profits ahead of their responsibility to the citizens of Chicago.

The position of these contractors has hampered the work of the Citizens' Committee much more than the problem of supplying workmen who are willing to work under the award.

These contractors would not have work if it was not for the apathy or connivance of the property owner.

It is the duty of everyone who is building or making repairs that he insists that his work proceed by contractors who have signed up with the Citizens' Committee. Should this be done, the fight for clean, economical building conditions in Cook County would be won in thirty days, the much needed building boom would be started, and every competent workman who is willing to work under fair conditions and fair wages would be employed.

Will you show your co-operation in this movement for a clean Chicago by giving your work to such contractors? You can obtain a list of such contractors from your architect or by applying at the office of the Committee, 10 South La Salle Street, Telephone Franklin 6363.

WHY BUSINESS "FREEZES UP"

Many Men in Business Do Not Know

Generally speaking, business has this unbusinesslike habit: When everybody's on a buying "jag," business breaks its back to supply demand. It buys, hires, builds and borrows. It expands enormously. Under such conditions, business employs every means that it recognizes to increase output and sales. And it advertises its head off to a public that needs no buying urge. Let buying falter, and what does business do?

First:	It curtails advertising
Second:	It curtails production
Third:	It further curtails advertising
Fourth:	It hacks at "overhead"
Fifth:	It still further curtails advertising
Sixth:	It hacks again at "overhead"
Seventh:	It STOPS ADVERTISING
Then:	It tries to explain the situation to the bank

In other words, when times are good it pours oil—advertising—on the already well-oiled selling machinery in an endless stream.

When times are bad it uses an advertising squirt-can and wonders why the bearings "freeze"!

People are not much interested in advertising when their pockets are bulging with money to be spent, spent, spent.

But they are intensely interested in advertising when what they spend must be carefully spent. Then they buy what they can afford—and they know advertising tells them where to find it.

Some day, not now, perhaps, but some day, business will learn to conserve its advertising energy when business is flourishing so that it may expend it lavishly to stimulate business when it lags.

Now's the time to spend it lavishly. Those who are doing it—and some actually are—feel the depression much less than the ones who have cut down expenses by cutting down advertising.

So thoroughly does the CHICAGO EVENING AMERICAN believe in the soundness of this practice that in 1921 (a year of general advertising shrinkage) it spent ten times as much money in promoting advertising as it ever spent before in a single year. Result: The CHICAGO EVENING AMERICAN gained over 500,000 lines while every one of its evening competitors lost over 500,000 lines.

In 1922 the CHICAGO EVENING AMERICAN will spend even more money in advertising advertising

CHAMP LEONARD HERE; HITS SNAG IN HAMMER BOUT

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Benny Leonard, kingpin of the lightweights, and his manager, Billy Gibson, passed through Chicago yesterday on their way to New Orleans, where the champion is scheduled to meet Pal Moran Thursday night. Following this bout Leonard will go to Boston to trade punches with Johnny Clinton soon after, and then will come west to fill an engagement in Omaha with Ever Hammer, local lightweight.

EVER HAMMER. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Although the match with Hammer has been closed, there is one detail to arrange. Leonard has a contract which calls for two fights in Madison Square Garden before the building is remodeled for summer sports. One of the contests will be with Jack Britton, while the other will be with the winner of the White-Jackson bout in New York tonight.

New York Contract Intervenes.

Conditions of this New York contract state the champion cannot engage in decision bouts until he has fulfilled terms of the agreement. As the proposed contest in Omaha is ten rounds to a decision, promoters will have to bill it as a no decision affair or call it off. Decisions are rendered in Boston, but the National Boxing association requested the Boston commissioners to permit it to be advertised as a no decision contest because the proceeds of the show go to a post of the American Legion.

Leonard told Jim Mullen, local promoter, that the only way White will secure a match is to have it made under his [Mullen's] management. The champion asserted he met White in New York last Saturday, and told Charlie he must do his business through Mullen to get a shot at the championship.

Benton Harbor Seeks Bout.

Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor promoter, was in communication with Manager Gibson relative to a Leonard-White match in the Michigan resort town on July 4. The champion's manager told Fitz he would have to show him whether he can run shows this summer before he will entertain any offers.

The champion and his manager left yesterday at noon on the Panama limited for New Orleans, where Gibson is interested in watching the success of a horse named after him in the first race today.

Harold Smith, the stockyards bantam under management of Buck Montgomery, and Bud Taylor of Terre Haute will start on the last lap of training today for their ten round decision contest at La Salle on Thursday night. Smith is working at Ferretti's and Taylor at the Arcade.

WHIST CARNIVAL AT ILLINOIS A. C. FOR CITY TITLES

The Chicago Whist association's annual carnival will open at Illinois A. C. Wednesday evening. The men's pair contest for the association championship for 1922, which will be played that night, carries with it two handsome loving cups, which must be won three times before permanent possession is obtained.

The only player who had that distinction was the late Dr. W. A. D. Montgomery. Several players have one or two wins, and the competition will be keen. The trophies now are in possession of Dr. F. E. Cheeseman and E. J. Tobin, who are again entered.

The match next in interest is the team of four contest for the Dougherty cup, now held by the Cicero club. This trophy carries with it the championship for fours and is always open to challenge. The following clubs have entered teams: Hamilton, Ravenswood, Illinois Athletic, Chicago Whist, Chicago Duplicate. The Dougherty cup match will be played on Saturday in two sessions, the preliminaries at 2:15 o'clock and the finals at 8:15 p. m.

E. J. Tobin is chairman of the tournament committee.

BADGER TRACK STAR IN HOSPITAL

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Director of Athletics T. R. Jones of Wisconsin university returned home today after spending a day at the local hospital with George Finkle, Badger track star, whose right leg was broken Saturday afternoon while running the two mile race in the Notre Dame-Wisconsin dual meet. Finkle will be confined to the St. Joseph hospital here for two weeks.

Notre Dame track men visited Finkle at the hospital today. The students' activity committee of Notre Dame sent floral offerings. Finkle will be lost to the Wisconsin team for the remainder of the year, but is expected to be able to run in 1923.

RAMSEY SECOND IN I. B. A. SINGLES

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 19.—R. Ramsey of Kansas City, today, rolled into second place in singles in the International bowling tournament here. He got 671. W. Herman of Chicago placed third with 668. J. Brick of St. Paul has 695 for the lead. A. Koles and H. Dailallas of Milwaukee with 1,235 moved into second position in doubles. F. Grossman and H. Miller, Milwaukee, took ninth with 1,205.

The five man rolling will wind up shortly after midnight tonight. The doubles and singles events will end late tomorrow.

BIKERS LEAVE FOR GOTHAM RACE

Riders who took part in the six day bicycle race at the Coliseum last week will leave today for New York to prepare for another six day grind, which will start in Madison Square Garden on March 5. Next year two Chicago bike races are promised—one in the autumn—as the result of the success of the recent grind.

GASOLINE ALLEY—JUST THE SAME, HE'S LEARNING

Sports Through Edgren's Eyes

EUGENE CRIQUI is called "The Knockout King of France." Recently the cables told that Criqui had knocked out Charles Ledoux in the first round of a twenty round bout in Paris. Criqui was a flyweight and Ledoux bantamweight champion of France.

CHARLES LEDOUX. [Photo Und. & Und.]

Fight fans in America generally know that Ledoux was one of the greatest bantams in the world before the war, and that in the war he established a heroic record. Twice he was gassed. Once a big German shell fell on a dugout just over his head, and Ledoux, dug from the debris an hour later, was laid out for burial when signs of life were discovered. Again he was wounded in action in a bayonet charge. In the Ouvrage Thiaumont he was one of seventeen survivors out of 180 of his command in the charge.

Twice he was marked for retirement, but each time he got back to the front, and he served through the war from beginning to end, being mustered out when it was over. Then he went back to boxing, but his wounds and the strain of four years of active service had taken the best part of his life. He never recovered all of his former speed and hitting power.

Criqui Has "Some" Record, Too.

But what Americans don't know is Criqui's record. Eugene Criqui did a little fighting in the war, too. He fought through it to the end, like Ledoux.

He won the Croix de Guerre and the Medaille Militaire, so it's evident Criqui saw active service.

In one battle Criqui was struck in the mouth by a bullet, which blew out his teeth and carried away part of his jaw. The surgeons built him a new jaw of steel composition. And now Criqui is "Knockout King" and bantamweight champion of Europe.

How can you keep down a nation which produces athletes as game as these?

What Other French Athletes Did.

Seeing what Criqui has accomplished since the war reminds me of several other French boxers and athletes who did their bit and should not be forgotten.

Marcel Thomas, a great welterweight before the war, became an aviator. He was twice wounded and twice decorated, having the Croix de Guerre and the Medaille Militaire. He has gone back to boxing, but because of his wounds in the head becomes dazed easily and falls.

Emile Maitrot, known as one of the greatest sportsmen in France, and the best French referee of boxing events, an all around athlete, and one of the strongest men in France (he could break coins and bend horseshoes with his fingers) was killed in the battle of the Argonne while attacking with the bayonet. He was a commanding lieutenant when killed, having risen from the ranks. He had won the Croix de Guerre and the Medaille Militaire.

Jean Bouin, the greatest runner France ever sent to the Olympic games, was killed Sept. 14, 1914, in the battle of the Marne, at the very beginning of the war.

Paul Pons, the famous heavyweight wrestler, lost his life in the service in 1916 or 1917. But Paul wasn't shot. He was drowned by accident while out fishing.

Those who placed among the leaders today were:

Petersons No. 2 of Chicago, a tie for fifth in five-men event, with 2,831.

J. Kreuth and J. Mulcahy, Chicago, tenth in doubles, 1,190.

Ross Murphy Winner in Amateur Bout at Arcade

Ross Murphy, stockyards lightweight, scored his sixth straight victory in the amateur boxing bouts at the Arcade yesterday, which will help select a team to meet Memphis in an intercity boxing tourney. Murphy stopped Sidney Lewis in less than a round.

ZBYSZKO AND LAITINEN WIND UP DRILL TODAY

Stanislaus Zbyszko, world's heavyweight champion, and Armos Laitinen, the Finlander, who meets him in the main event of the wrestling show of the Knights of Pythias at the Coliseum Wednesday night, will finish training today at local gymnasiums.

DOC KRONE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Both have been wrestling with regularity lately and needed little priming. The Pole will work at the Arcade today and his opponent at Ferretti's. They will do light training tomorrow, but no practice bouts.

Wrestle to Finish.

The bout will be to a finish, best two in three falls. Rules and regulations to govern the match were explained by Referee Emil Thiry, and the city athletic commission will be on hand to see that the show is conducted properly.

Time limits will be placed on the other three bouts. The semi-windup, between John Freberg and Jack Linow, will go to one fall, or a forty-five minute decision.

Krone and Mullen Judges.

Jim Mullen, local boxing and wrestling promoter, and John "Doc" Krone, also well known to the sporting world, have been recommended as judges.

Oscar Stein Comes to Fore in World's Classic Pin Meet

Oscar Stein of St. Louis hopped into the focus as a favorite in the world's championship match bowling tournament at Coliseum annex last night by a fine showing in two series.

JIMMY BLOUIN. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

In the first he beat Mort Lindsey of Stamford, Conn., four games, losing one of the matches by one pin. Next he "took" William Martin of Cleveland for a whole series. In the latter he hung up the high total of the night, getting 1,118 with a tall game of 278 in which he made nine straight strikes. For the ten games he gathered in 2,182 pins and nine victories. This terrific total boosted his points to 387 17-50 for eighty-five games, which is third high.

Sykes Thoma, who has shot ninety games, has the highest number of points, leading the parade with 404 38-50. He is followed by Hank Marino of Chicago, who had 404 14-50 for the same number of games.

Jimmy Bluin, the Blue Island-Chicago entry, gave a dandy exhibition against Chris Kaad.

HOW YOU PLAY STYMIE DEPENDS WHERE YOU PLAY

BY JOE DAVIS.

Do your spring shopping early. We have on exhibition four fine brands of stymies—the St. Andrew's, made in Scotland; the U. S. G. A., made in New York; the W. G. A., made in Chicago, and the trans-Mississippi, made in Kansas City.

FREDERIC BYERS. [Drake Photo.]

The St. Andrew's brand is hide bound, the others having coverings of a more elastic character. There have been rumors of a merger on the part of the New York and Chicago factories, but no definite information has been issued from headquarters.

The St. Andrew's brand, which is older than Dundee marmalade and as rigid as the laws of the Medes and Persians, must be played unless the balls are within six inches of each other.

Different Permits with Each.

The U. S. G. A. brand permits you to concede a putt to your opponent if you think his ball interferes with yours; the western permits the player to ask his opponent to lift or play the opposing ball; while the trans-Mississippi gives you something akin to home cooking in that you have to make the stymie yourself to enjoy playing it. You don't have to take the stymie made by the other fellow.

At the conference between U. S. G. A. and Western officials held last month at Chicago James Nugent of Kansas City tried hard to get the U. S. G. A. to adopt the trans-Mississippi rule as a compromise measure, but failed.

May Change Rules.

It seems reasonably sure that some of the four rules will be scrapped before the season opens, but so far the trans-Mississippi association has given no indication it will change its rule. That association probably will play it as a local rule.

There has been some confusion as to the special rules made by the Western association regarding cleaning the ball, ball imbedded in mud, and ball on the wrong green.

President Albert R. Gates says these have not been eliminated, but will be played as local rules when occasion demands.

GLEASON NOT WORRIED ABOUT THE HOLDOUTS

Herington, Kas., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Kid Gleason, manager of the White Sox, refuses to be annoyed about the holdouts. The advance squad of the Sox, progressing south and west, contains only one catcher, Ray Schalk.

It appears as if George Lees has declined to sign, and was left in Chicago. However, Yaryan was all set to go, but received word that a near relative had died, hence he will not report for a few days.

Today was spent in conferences between Manager Gleason, John Evers, and Ray Schalk.

CUBS REACH CAMP

Avalona, Catalina Island, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Having indulged in three days of carefree travel, the nineteen Cubs who comprise Manager Bill Killefer's advance squad will settle down tomorrow to the serious business of spring training. Shortly after breakfast Pilot Bill will sound the call, and from that moment until the season opens April 12 the men will lead busy lives.

The squad hopped off the train at Los Angeles, boarded electric cars for Wilmington, Cal., and there embarked on the good ship Avalon, which piled into this port in time for luncheon.

The only athlete on the island up to the time of the ship's arrival was Grover Cleveland Alexander. The big hurler dolled up in his Sunday best and came down to the dock to meet his mates.

Manager Bill and Speed Martin accompanied him.

The practice in the morning will be a general loosening up exercise, and the afternoon will be devoted to mountain climbing.

GRADE EGGS WITH METAL RING

WORKING out a satisfactory system of grading eggs, producers believe, will be a difficult task in any attempt to sell eggs by weight. One of the principal objections to selling eggs by the pound or ounce has been that it makes the handling of eggs more complex, because the eggs have to be weighed each time they change hands between the producer and the retailer.

To simplify the handling of eggs, avoid weighing, and at the same time make allowance for the larger sized eggs, Mrs. E. P. Servoss, Chicago, suggests they be sorted into two grades, depending on their size, and then sold by the dozen. She suggests that the eggs be sorted by the use of a metal ring, and have the ring standardized by state authorities.

In grading eggs mark all of those that are too large to pass through the ring as firsts, and the ones that are small enough to pass through as seconds. When the eggs are sold by the dozen there should be a reasonable difference in price.

Egg dealers in New Jersey, according to Mrs. Servoss, use the ring to grade the eggs they buy from the producers.

The price of the eggs, after all, would depend to a great extent upon their freshness and general quality.

CANADIAN CLUB DOWNS PULLMAN SOCCER ELEVEN

Facing a deficit of one goal at the end of the first half, the Canadian Club soccer team started with a rush in the last period and downed the Pullman eleven, 2 goals to 1, in a Chicago league match at Bricklayers' park yesterday.

Owing to the heavy condition of the ground the Harvey-Rangers game scheduled to precede the Pullman-Canadian game, was postponed.

The match was a rough one, and in the second half Tom Westwater of Pullman and Flack of the Canadians were sent from the field when the former struck the Canuck.

"Hank" Higgins made his first appearance for the Canucks, and played a great game at right full back. Lineup:

CANADIAN CLUB.		PULLMAN.

PUNTA DE AGUA, Sonora, Mexico, Jan. 22.—Dear Bob: You may recall that it was about the middle of last November when I crossed the Mexican frontier to hunt the jaguar and mountain lion.

I have started in where I left off last year and have continued a southeasterly course. During the last two months we have passed through the Yaqui belt without any serious trouble—only the loss of a couple head of stock. Besides minor game, such as deer, coyotes, javilinas (peccary or wild pig), we have killed six tigers (jaguars) and four leones (cougars).

* *

The deer we kill for food, the wolves, coyotes and bob-cats because they are predatory animals, and the javilinas, or wild boars, because they are the scrappiest proposition for their weight and size in the world. They are truly dangerous when bunched in bands of a dozen or more.

They will, when aroused, charge upon the slightest provocation, and if they do this little act together, one had best find some lofty resting place. Of course, following the hounds in the pursuit of lions and jaguars thrills me most, so, naturally, as much time as possible is spent in their chase.

* *

This year we have had some dandy chases, a few lasting as long as twelve hours. We have gone into many rough places for "tigre," but so far have not been obliged to crawl in caves and do the candle act. About the closest shave was when a female jaguar bayed in a patch of tall grass and concealed herself so skillfully that I nearly stepped on her. I was able to see one eye, and needless to say the light went out of that eye "muy pronto."

STANLEY GRAHAM.

[Editor's Note—Stan is the boy that goes south each winter to lasso (and he wields the rope himself), photograph, and shoot cougar and jaguar. He has captured a number of mountain lion alive by roping them when treed.]

Baseball Leagues to Open Weekly Meetings Tonight

The regular weekly meetings of the local baseball circuits will start tonight. The Midwest association will hold its first gathering of the season at the Morrison, the new Intercity-Interstate league will meet at 116 North State street, while the Liberty and Junior leagues will get together in the public hearing room of the city hall.

BASEBALL MEN PLEASED WITH LANDIS' MOVE

After a day of reflection on Judge Landis' determination to retire from the bench, baseball men of both majors and minors yesterday rushed to welcome the jurist to full time control of their activities. Some sour comment cropped up in eastern newspapers, but the greater and lesser lights of the baseball firmament spared few words of pleasure.

JUDGE K. M. LANDIS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

John Farrell, secretary of the National Association of Minors, stressed the keynote of the magnates in New York, at the sessions of the national board of arbitration. He said: "What is the country's loss is baseball's gain. The game will now get most of Commissioner Landis' time, and in the future he will be an even more competent executive than in the past."

See Great Benefit to Baseball.

Chicago baseball leaders tempered their enthusiasm with a bit of citizen-like regret at losing the service of the incisive jurist from the federal bench, but all looked forward to the new regime beginning March 1 with anticipation. From the farther perspective of other cities, baseball followers foresaw nothing but benefit in the change.

Local comment featured the fading possibility of Babe Ruth's chances of getting his early suspension lifted.

It is understood that Judge Landis' resignation will automatically raise his baseball salary to $50,000, the sum originally agreed. At the time of assuming the commissionership the jurist deducted his federal salary of $7,500 from the $50,000 on his initiative.

HEYDLER SENDS TELEGRAM.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—John A. Heydler, president of the National league, said that he had sent the following telegram to Judge Landis: "The American baseball public and all those identified with the game are to be congratulated on your choice. Your decision insures the maintenance of a high standard of fair play and good sportsmanship."

The Evening Telegram editorially comments on Landis' resignation as follows:

"Whatever satisfaction the public may experience because of the fact that Federal Judge Kenesaw Landis has resigned his place on the bench will be lessened by the reasons he supplies for taking the belated step, as follows:

"'There are not enough hours in the day for all of my activities, therefore I have forwarded my resignation as federal judge to Washington, effective March 1.'

"In other words, if being a judge had not interfered with being a baseball magnate, or vice versa, his honor would have continued to hold the two offices."

THE MEN WHO MAKE A RAILROAD

DID you ever stop to think that the blue-uniformed, brass-buttoned Conductor is the "Commanding Officer" of his train? His authority—absolute as the master of the great ocean liner—is no less than his responsibility.

The Conductor's watch regulates the train. His signal starts and stops it. He sees that all orders governing his train are properly executed.

The Conductor is the "point of contact" between the Company and you, the passenger the Company serves. He takes your ticket, dispenses information cheerfully, and is withal courteous and obliging.

Invariably Great Western conductors stimulate a friendly feeling toward the Great Western.

THE VENGEANCE OF HENRY JARROMAN

BY ROY VICKERS

Henry Jarroman, released from prison, to which he was sentenced twenty years before for the murder of Charles Eddis, learns that John Camden, his one time friend, who he believes stole his wife, killed Eddis, and fastened the crime on him, is dead. He has nourished his hatred of Camden all the long years in prison, and his embittered heart bids him make Camden's daughter a victim.

The girl believes her name to be Nadia Quest. She is employed as a typist by the Hon. Wilfred Stranack, who loves her and asks her to marry him. Lord Doucester, his father, is startled when he recognizes a ring Nadia wears and knows who she is.

Claudine Crayne, the wife who dishonored and deserted Jarroman and their young daughter, is the proprietor of a smart gambling establishment. Theed, Jarroman's rascally solicitor, visits her and tells her Jarroman desires to find his daughter. They conspire to substitute Nadia for the real daughter, with the idea of getting Jarroman's fortune. Theed brings Nadia and Jarroman together. Jarroman recognizes Camden's ring, knows Nadia is not his daughter, and rejoices that the victim of his hate is delivered into his hands.

Nadia marries Stranack. Immediately after the ceremony Segrove, the detective, tells Jarroman he has discovered Nadia is Camden's daughter, and that he has found Jarroman's own daughter. Jarroman calls on his daughter, Nell. While he is instructing Theed to start proceedings against Nadia to recover the property he has given her, Segrove's report is received, in which he states that he finds Camden as innocent of the crime as Jarroman himself. The shock of this news to Jarroman brings on a paralytic stroke and Theed has him removed to Claudine's house.

INSTALLMENT XLII.

NADIA LEARNS THE TRUTH.

Her hands clasped themselves tightly in her lap. Nadia waited, motionless, and Lady Doucester plunged into explanations.

"What I have to say will come as a shock to you, Nadia. I fancy that, like myself, you prefer to know the full truth at once." Nadia bent her head slightly. "Well, then, this is what has occurred. It has been discovered that you are not Mr. Jarroman's daughter."

You are not Mr. Jarroman's daughter.

Nadia's lips parted, but no words came. She looked from her mother-in-law to Theed, then down at her clenched hands. There was a long pause.

Theed edged his way skillfully into the situation.

"If there is resentment in your heart at having been put into a false position, my dear Nadia, let that resentment vent itself on me, for indeed I have blundered colossally. I wonder if you have any early recollections, recollections of your life before you were put into the charge of Miss Hannah Quest?"

"Only some dim impressions," said Nadia, with difficulty. "As no doubt you remember," she added, "I more than once asked you when you came to see Aunt Hannah and me what my early circumstances had been."

"And I gave evasive replies. What else could I do?"

The conscious rectitude of Theed's manner brought a twitch, instantly suppressed, to Lady Doucester's carmined lips.

"Allow me to defend my position, my dear lady. At my poor friend Henry Jarroman's request I went, at the close of his trial, to the boarding house where he and his wife had been living with their child for some months. His idea in asking me to call had been to discuss with Mrs. Jarroman her plans—financial and otherwise—for the future. I arrived at the boarding house to find her gone. She had deserted her child!"

Lady Doucester allowed her attention to wander to the view. She yawned slightly in the resigned fashion of the blasé theatergoer, and Theed's tone dropped to the normal.

"I will not weary you with my reasons, but I arranged with the proprietress of the boarding house to relieve her of the responsibility of little Penelope Jarroman. My aunt, Miss Hannah Quest, was persuaded to receive into her keeping the friendless, homeless—worse than homeless——"

"You were kind," cut in Nadia, desperately. "I suppose what happened was that the proprietress made a mistake and gave you the wrong child.

"There's something almost ludicrous about it, isn't there?" she continued, a trifle hysterically. "Not so long ago you had to break to me that I was not a Quest. Now I am not—I was not a Jarroman either, it seems. Is there any trace of my parentage at all?"

Lady Doucester brought her gaze back from the sun baked lawn. Theed cleared his throat.

"Your surmise is absolutely correct," he said. "I was given to understand that you were Penelope Jarroman. I cannot attempt to describe my distress when Mr. Jarroman sent for me yesterday and told me of the discovery that he had made—quite by chance, I understand."

"It was he who made the discovery, then?" whispered Nadia. Every vestige of color had left her face. "Somehow it did not occur to me that he could know it. Is he—what is he——" She turned to Lady Doucester with a forlorn little gesture.

"You will understand that the discovery of this unfortunate truth was a great shock to him," Lady Doucester told her with unusual gentleness. "In fact, he felt he could not bring himself to face you just yet. It is his intention to travel on the continent for a short time—indeed, I believe he has already left for Paris. Later on, no doubt, he will arrange a meeting."

Lady Doucester had dropped this surprising piece of information with so truthful an air that Theed found himself wondering whether the falsehood were not of his own contrivance in the first place. If so, it did him credit!

"That is your opinion, is it not, Mr. Theed?" demanded Lady Doucester, crisply. "He wishes the meeting—postponed?"

Theed, still speechless, bowed his assent and his admiration.

"Gone away," repeated Nadia, wretchedly. "That isn't a bit like father—I mean, like Mr. Jarroman. Isn't he going to try to find the real Penelope Jarroman?"

"I gather that she has already been found," Theed answered her. "She is in—humble circumstances."

"Then I must begin at once to transfer to her everything that has been given to me by Mr. Jarroman," said Nadia, quickly. The prospect of action seemed to have given her back her strength. "I should like it all to be completed before Mr. Jarroman returns from abroad. Will you take the necessary steps, Mr. Theed?"

Theed's eyes slid 'round to Lady Doucester. Nadia misinterpreted his hesitation.

"I must discuss the whole matter fully with my husband when he returns," she said, proudly, "but there is no possibility that he will disagree with me as to what should be done about the gifts Mr. Jarroman made me."

"Of course, he will not disagree," put in Lady Doucester. "Mr. Theed is thinking, as I am, of the appalling effect all this is going to have upon Wilfred's future."

Nadia shrank a little from the grimness in her tone; but it was evident that she had not yet caught the drift of Lady Doucester's words.

"Do you mean that my parentage is such that he will suffer socially?" she faltered. She turned to Theed. "You avoided answering me just now, Mr. Theed. Please spare me nothing. Who was my father?"

It was Lady Doucester who answered her.

"Your father was John Camden. You have heard his name before. He was a relative of mine."

"Mr. Jarroman believes John Camden was a murderer—that it was he who should have served for twenty years." Nadia's words were barely audible. "And he loaded me with affection—me, John Camden's daughter." Her voice broke and sank still lower. "How he must be suffering now! How he must loathe the thought of me!"

She hid her face in her hands.

Lady Doucester rose and stood for a moment, looking down at the dark head tragically bent, at the slender hands that could not hide the gathering, falling tears. To Theed, the moment seemed peculiarly appropriate for assurances of sympathy and affection, leading gently to the point where Nadia would consent to be guided by the worldly wisdom of her elders.

He stole a glance at Lady Doucester. His own eyes were already moist with induced emotion, and he was greatly shocked to see in the gaze of his fellow conspirator a brooding calculation, a fixity of purpose almost impersonal. He tugged at his watch chain, and told himself sadly that to some women the helplessness of youth made no appeal—tut tut—no appeal at all.

"Dear child, you are torturing yourself needlessly," Lady Doucester's voice held a note of quiet friendliness which checked Nadia's stifled sobs. "After all, it's little more than a technical error. If you and Mr. Jarroman had any feelings for each other, as I've no doubt you have, it's quite absurd to suppose that such a feeling could be destroyed by the discovery of legal documents and so forth. Even the fact that you are John Camden's daughter will make no difference—of that I am convinced."

Nadia shook her head.

"You don't know how he hates the memory of John Camden," she said. "He never put it into words, but sometimes when I was helping him collect evidence with which to establish his own innocence I would look up suddenly and find his eyes fixed upon me, and I could see a sort of dreadful darkness in them. That was when he was thinking of the man you now say is my father."

Lady Doucester paled a little under her rouge, and drew a quick breath. She could visualize clearly the little scene; the table littered with papers, the girl absorbed in sorting and filing them, the man opposite her bending upon her a gaze heavy with hatred.

"We must try to look at this broadly," put in Theed with all the soothing benevolence which he had expected Lady Doucester to import into her own rôle. "We must be patient, and form no rash conclusions. Mr. Jarroman's exact words to me were that he was most anxious that no difference should be made. Exactly what he meant by the phrase I cannot say; but while fully sympathizing with your attitude regarding the money question, I must entreat you not to give rein at once to those noble emotions which, we must all agree, are apt to cloud the judgment. At such a critical—we might almost term it such a dramatic turn of ev——"

"O, do—stop!"

Nadia had sprung to her feet and moved close to Lady Doucester as if, after all, quiet friendliness were more to her taste than the reassurances of a rich understanding. Theed's confidence in his ally returned. He closed his eyes as if the rebuff had wounded him to the soul, inclined his head, and moved towards the open window.

"Highly strung," he murmured, apparently to himself. "Result of shock. Only to be expected." At the window he rallied and turned.

"If you and Lady Doucester will excuse me I will take a short stroll in this charming garden," he said, in the manner of one excusing and covering the gaucherie of a child. "What a spot for a honeymoon, to be sure! It must be difficult, in such exquisite surroundings, to believe that life can be anything but one long romance."

SCOUR CITY FOR BLONDE "QUEEN" OF BANDIT GANG

Pretty Girl Is Hunted for $200,000 Crimes.

With a beautiful blonde as their quarry, Chicago police last night began a search which Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes declares will not end except with the capture of a dangerous bandit gang.

CHIEF HUGHES.

The girl is the leader of a band of five highwaymen. She is young, she is pretty, and she wields a pearl handled blue steel automatic pistol of heavy caliber. She wears imported gowns and many diamonds on her looting expeditions. Those of her victims who have seen her say that she has a most winsome smile. And in the last five months she and her accomplices have pillaged homes and shops of more than $200,000 worth of loot.

Last Seen Saturday.

Her last appearance was Saturday night. Then she and two of the gang invaded the home of Mrs. Charles Bael, 1452 Argyle street, held up the occupants and escaped with many valuables.

On Feb. 10 the band visited the fur shop of Nathan Brodheim, 1030 Argyle street. The girl entered first.

"I'd like to look at a fur coat—a mink coat," she told Mr. Brodheim. He accommodated her. She looked at the most expensive furs in the store. None seemed to suit her.

Finally, when all the most costly furs lay before her on the counter, she drew her pistol. She forced Brodheim to the rear of the store. Two male aids came in, tossed the furs into a gunnysack, and walked out again. The loss was more than $10,000.

Singles Out Victim in Movie.

Mrs. Pauline Lichtenstein, 1011 Ainslie street, went to a north side theater. Beside her sat the blonde. When Mrs. Lichtenstein left the girl followed. Mrs. Lichtenstein was held up by two men in the lobby of her apartment house and stripped of her diamonds.

Miss Mary Martin, cashier of the Marshall Square theater, was taking the night's receipts to a safe deposit box a few weeks ago. She hired a taxicab. An automobile driven by a pretty blonde followed. Miss Martin's cab was forced to the curb on a dark street, and the $1,800 in cash taken.

Another Fur Robbery.

And on Jan. 23 a pretty blonde locked Max Jacobs in the vault of his fur store at 3377 North Clark street. Two male aides took $5,000 worth of furs. A pretty blonde with a pearl handled pistol is being sought in connection with the holdup of Mr. and Mrs. James Brasfield in front of their north side home.

Mrs. Edith Palmer, 4239 South Michigan avenue, lost more than $15,000 worth of valuables in a burglary believed to have been engineered by the girl bandit. Many other residents in homes and apartments have heard their telephones ring and when they answered they were told in a sweet feminine voice that "it's the wrong number." Police believe by this means the gang "spots" homes for looting.

PROHIBITION CURE FOR THE 'DOWN AND OUT'

The effect of prohibition on the old time "down and outs" is said to be marked by F. C. Moore, treasurer of the Morgan Memorial Goodwill industry, Boston, which is the parent society of the Goodwill industries established in twenty-two cities. Mr. Moore was a delegate to the conference which met yesterday at 1040 West Monroe street. The conference closes with an all day meeting today at the Hotel La Salle.

"Before prohibition went into effect," said Mr. Moore, "we used to have from fifteen to twenty-five drunks every morning applying to us for help. Now we do not have more than one or two a week."

A. F. Carlyle, St. Paul, Minn., confirmed the statement of Mr. Moore. He said the attention of the St. Paul Goodwill industry was turned towards the handicapped and unemployed, giving them work, and not to the rescue of drunks.

Burglars Obtain $1,000 from Evanston Homes

Burglars visited two Evanston homes yesterday. William H. Hogle, 539 Michigan avenue, lost $800 in silverware and jewelry and Harry Waitl, 531 Judson avenue, $200.

MOONSHINE AND AUTOS MIX; TWO PERSONS KILLED

Were Returning from Christening.

Moonshine and an automobile made five children orphans last night. Stanislaus Lapata, 2246 West 21st street, his wife, Bart Sopa, 2133 West 20th street, and John Brudzisz, 3418 West 37th street, were riding in Brudzisz's machine at Roosevelt road and Leavitt street, when it collided with a machine driven by Joseph Schvermickas, 3732 62d street.

MRS. LAPATA.

The Brudzisz machine overturned. Mr. and Mrs. Lapata were crushed beneath the car and were almost instantly killed. Sopa received a broken leg. Brudzisz was slightly injured.

Brudzisz and his party had been attending a christening in which moonshine played a considerable part. They were on their way home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lapata leave five children. They were cared for by friends last night.

Brudzisz is in jail charged with driving an automoble while intoxicated.

S. LAPATA.

Vivian Amerman, 10 years old, 1443 Arthur avenue, was struck by an automobile and fatally injured last night as she alighted from a surface car at Broadway and Foster avenue.

The driver of the car, a colored man, gave a witness a card bearing the name "A. L. Jones, 2009 Colfax avenue, Evanston." Witnesses say he failed to stop his machine behind the surface car when it stopped at the street intersection.

MR. WILLIAMSON BIDS HIS FLOCK WARLIKE ADIEU

Rev. John H. Williamson, municipal "super"-law enforcer, took leave of his flock yesterday by introducing the Rev. Louis F. W. Lesemann as the temporary pastor of the Normal Park Methodist Episcopal church.

Before the commissioner left the pulpit he led the congregation in the responsive reading for the day. He chose from the Psalter war-like serves which begin as follows:

Plead my cause, O Lord, with them that strive with me:
Fight Thou against them that fight against me.
Take hold of shield and buckler,
And stand up for my help.
Draw out also the spear, and stop the way against them that persecute me:
Say unto my soul, I am thy salvation.

The Rev. Mr. Williamson made only casual reference to his new duties at the city hall. He announced that he will continue to teach the men's Bible class at the church and will devote to church work all the time that he can spare from his law enforcement labors.

BIRTH OF NEW LABOR PARTY IS EXPECTED TODAY

A new political labor party is expected to result from a meeting in Corinthian hall in the Masonic temple today, called by J. A. H. Hopkins, executive secretary of the committee of forty-eight.

Among the "liberals" who will be present will be Morris Hillquit, Victor Berger, William H. Johnston, president of the Machinists' association, and Mr. Hopkins.

In a letter to Mr. Johnston, Mr. Hopkins declared that the first steps toward the abolition of privilege are public control of natural resources, public ownership of railroads, and equal rights, including free speech, free press, and peaceable assembly, as guaranteed in the constitution.

New Fight to Defend U. S. Colored Man in Canada

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 19.—Telegraphic instructions to defend Matthew Bullock, American colored man, whom the authorities of Norlina, N. C., will make a second attempt to extradite next Friday, were received today by Controller F. E. Treleaven from the New York office of the Society for the Advancement of Colored People. Norlina officials ask Bullock's extradition on an attempted murder charge, after having failed to obtain a warrant on a charge of inciting to riot.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

[Copyright: 1922: New York Tribune, Inc.]

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Will you go stockingless next summer if that's the style.

Where Asked.

At random, here and there.

The Answers.

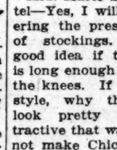

Miss Edythe Gilfilen, 430 Diversey parkway, secretary — If going without stockings is really in style next summer and it is done in a pretty way, the most of us will undoubtedly accept it. Somehow we all follow, or try to follow, Master Style's edicts. As for stockings, many girls wore pretty short ones last summer.

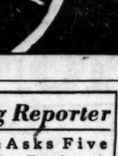

Miss Hilda Ambler, New York City, actress—I have never gone in for extremes of any kind. So far as stockings are concerned, I'll wear mine rolled, and I think that's about my limit. I don't know how they dress here at the beaches, but in New York they are restricted to long stockings, and if the style comes in I hope it will be in vogue at all the beaches.

Mrs. Marie Spain, New Tremont hotel—Yes, I will, considering the present cost of stockings. It's a good idea if the skirt is long enough to cover the knees. If it is the style, why they will look pretty and attractive that way. Why not make Chicago an attractive city?

Mrs. W. J. Terry, 5458 Kimbark avenue—If it is in style and everybody else does it I will, why certainly. I don't see any harm in it. You pay a good price to go to a musical comedy to see the same thing. Why, that's real beauty to me. If you are born with a beautiful form why be ashamed of it?

Miss Goldie Vast, 14 W. Chestnut street, home girl — I suppose I'll be going without stockings — if that's the style. That's the woman of it for you. Women always look best when they are dressed in the latest thing, and it doesn't matter what that particular thing is either. So with the stockingless girl. A lot of us will look mighty pretty that way, too.

A Sparkling Play at the La Salle

"THE SILVER FOX."

A comedy by Cosmo Hamilton, based upon a play by Francs Herczog. Presented at the La Salle theater Feb. 19, 1922. The cast:

Frankie Turner.....Boots Wooster
Edmund Quilter.....Lawrence Grossmith
Major Christopher Stanley....Percy Marmont
Helen Quilter.....Violet Kemble Cooper
Captain Douglas Belgrave.....Noel Tearle

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

THIS amiably cynical discussion of the uses and misuses of matrimony was submitted at the La Salle last evening, carrying its audience to a high pitch of hilarity; bringing its author, Cosmo Hamilton, to the footlights for an engagingly brief word of thanks, and revealing to some of us who were puzzled why William Faversham is no longer of the cast.

Mr. Faversham, you remember, was the star of "The Silver Fox" in New York and abandoned the play, rather unaccountably, to undertake a revival of "The Squaw Man." Viewing the performance as it is now arranged, one perceives that it was not Mr. Faversham, but the delightful player named Lawrence Grossmith who emerged with the lion's share of the honors.

Grossmith's rôle, at first thought a subordinate one, is easily developed by the actor into the dominant figure of the piece, and in his hands it becomes an altogether notable achievement in high comedy. When he rambles into the proceedings his presence is an immediate and unfailing occasion of laughter, tempered with the persuasiveness of playing that is as sympathetic as it is comic.

He is a writer of popular novels—a whimsical, honest, beguiling character—pensively regretful over the perfectly obvious fact that his wife does not love him. His greatest happiness has been the frequent visits of a soldier poet, whose presence seems to supply the missing element in his wife's happiness. But the poet has been away, and as the play begins he returns in a jealous rage over having caught his inamorata in what appears to be a compromising position.

He has seen her—er—limbs—in rolled socks under a screen, where he should not have seen them. And you get some idea of the play's droll fun when you contemplate the scene that follows—the lover storming of lost ideals, bare legs, and the abandoned ways of womankind; the husband condoning, explaining, trying to make things right again.

So it goes on, in topsy-turvy fashion, with the husband always the benevolent, philosophical peacemaker. Divorce comes, and a second marriage for the novelist, but still he labors earnestly to bring his first wife and his friend together. In the end he succeeds.

It is a comedy of conversation rather than of action, but after a slow start in the first act it strikes a merry pace and sparkles almost continuously with a steady fire of delectable lines to chuckle over. The temptation is to quote some of these, but doing so would be like decanting champagne. Enough to say that they provide uncommonly stimulating entertainment—smart, sophisticated, and, you may think, darling, though really thin ice, it seemed to me, was traversed at only one point.

MISS VIOLET KEMBLE COOPER
in "The Silver Fox."

Miss Violet Kemble Cooper plays the wife with many deft touches of ironic humor, and a wholesome young actress, Miss Boots Wooster, portrays an amusing transition as the sentimental clergyman's daughter who becomes the novelist's wife and goes in for amazing gowns. Percy Marmont is the sulky poet (formerly Faversham's rôle), making him rather a prig and betraying an inclination to declaim what he has to say.

Illinois Women Hurt in Auto Crash in Florida

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Miss Jo McGuinnis, Dixon, Ill., was probably fatally injured, and Thomas Malley, Morristown, N. J., was killed when an automobile driven by Malley collided with another near Daytona about midnight. Blanche McGuinnis was badly hurt.

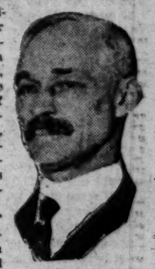

MORAL MANNERS OF HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS PRAISED

Social Workers Blame Other Young Folk.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

High school young people and young people of high school age—there's a difference.

Failure on the part of the "critical public" to recognize this difference is largely responsible for the rather general condemnation of high school students, said Miss Grace Bartelme, dean of girls at John Marshall High school, in a recent discussion of the manners and morals of the pupils under her charge.

MORGAN C. HOGGE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

"It isn't fair," said Miss Bartelme, "to condemn all high school pupils for the indiscretions of a small group of people, a few of whom attend high school, the majority of whom have attended high school for a day, a week, a semester or two."

Denies School Dances Are Bad.

Miss Bartelme takes particular exception to a recent statement made by ballroom managers and dance investigators that there is worse dancing in high school assembly halls than on public dance hall floors.

High school students, Miss Bartelme admits, may dance indiscretely at parties in clubs, hotels, restaurants, when not under the jurisdiction of the high school. This, therefore, is not a school dance.

With Miss Bartelme, Miss Edith Wines, supervisor of music at John Marshall, and Miss Eula Deaton, dean at Austin, have been visiting public dance halls for the last few nights to compare them with school dances.

"No Step" Held Harmful.

The high school student, they grant, likes the "crazy, outlandish, freakish step." But this kind of dancing, they maintain, engages all the attention on technique and the performing couple is so busy counting and so pleased with its cleverness that there is time for nothing but dancing and thought of dancing. It is not the intricate and unusual step that is bad. It is the sophisticated dance, the "no step," that is most harmful.

Another explanation for the criticism of the high school dance is offered by Morgan C. Hogge, assistant superintendent of schools and director of social centers.

"Some students go elsewhere after the school dance is over; others tell their parents they are going to the school and go to another dance," Mr. Hogge said.

Stay Out After Dance.

"It is not unusual for a mother to call up the school to ask why the dance at the social center was permitted to run so late. Upon being assured that the dance was over at an early hour, the mother expresses surprise that her daughter did not return until several hours later."

Mr. Hogge is responsible for the activities at forty-eight grammar schools which conduct social dances that many high school pupils attend.

But the high school student doesn't spend nearly as much time on the dance floor as one would imagine. For, in addition to the regular academic studies, each high school has a well developed socialized phase which includes activities of great number and variety.

Many Neglect Activities.

Do all the pupils attend all the school meetings, join in all its activities? Not at all, comes the reply from Carl Schurz, Hyde Park, Lake View, Nicholas Senn, Lindblom, and others. But pupils and teachers agree that large numbers of the "regular students" support these activities, and haven't much time for "outside recreation."

It is usually the four year student who identifies himself with the better things within the school, investigation seems to show. It is the transient pupil, who enrolls, attends school for a semester, flunks, returns, fails, and drops out, the pupil who is standard in neither attendance nor ambition, who is the real disturbing factor.

6 HOUR WORK DAY "UNTHINKABLE," MINE OWNER SAYS

Fairmont, W. Va., Feb. 19.—George S. Brackett, secretary of the Northern West Virginia Coal Operators' association, today gave out a statement in which he described as "unthinkable" the move for a six hour work day provided for in a resolution adopted by the United Mine Workers at Indianapolis yesterday.

The statement says "the miners have made a move which adds to the difficulty of obtaining a reasonable settlement," and adds:

"Other industries have come down from the peaks of wartime costs, and we must do the same, not only for the benefit of our own industry but for the good of the country at large.

"It may be that radical and unreasoning elements controlled the convention. The outcome may show that the great majority of the miners themselves, especially in this section, are more reasonable and more awake to the facts."

And Many Came Asking Questions!

By Mae Tinée.

HELEN: You are about to be made O, so happy! When it happens, write and tell mother how um felt.

W.: So you didn't like "Over the Hill" and thought Mary Carr made a "nice old grandma." Well, she did. She was a grandma for a good part of the time. However, we're all entitled to our own opinion—and I dare say yours is quite as valuable as mine. Anyhow, nobody's mad, is anybody, W.?

R. F.: The fact that you want an address is no sign that you're a "lovesick fan." Far be it from me to suspect you of being such a thing. Address Milton Sills at 1320 Crescent Heights boulevard, Hollywood. Y'wekkum.

SWEETHEART: You quit! Alright. The gentleman's name is Antrim Short and he may be reached in California. (1771 Cahuenza avenue, Los Angeles.)

M. H. F.: Glad to oblige you. Edith Storey's address is 676 Riverside drive, New York City. Going to write and tell her you want to see her in some more pictures? I would if I were you.

E. B.: You "bet he has a nice voice," do you? Born in Italy. Age, 27 years. Yeppy, I like the roto section, too. Sure, write to him. He says he'll stop acting if he doesn't stop getting writ to—but you know just how much he means that!

GENEVIEVE: You want to put your two little girls, aged 7 and 9, in the movies? Forget it. If you can't take them either to Los Angeles or New York and make the rounds of the various studios. Some studio manager might see possibilities in them. But if they were mine I'd send them to school until they were 17 or 19, ANYWAY.

P. F. M.: Here you am, eh? "Loafing and dreaming," you say. Well, the old bank roll won't last long that way. I'm glad your room is clean and quiet. Again, good luck, P. F. M.

CLOSEUPS.

Harriet Hammond is ill at her mother's home. Some sort of an electrical explosion took place in the studio where she was working recently, frightening her so that she's not been the same since. It is expected, however, that she will soon be on the job again.

They say that the most popular form of diversion for the stars for some time has been attending the Burch-Obenchain murder trial. Some go to get a thrill and some to study conditions and characters.

Elinor Glyn is back in Hollywood after a number of weeks in Europe. She evidently likes casting her lot with the "beasts" as she called Americans in a recent magazine article. The "beasts'" money, too probably.

HAROLD TEEN—MORE PIFFLE ANENT THE POMP

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

A Full Frying Pan.

Your frying pan full of beefsteak onions, and potatoes may take its name from the initial letters and be called s. o. p., but do not think of the word sopping, for here we have a sort of casserole mixture without heating up the oven for the necessary long, slow cooking. The ingredients which will make a good sized panful are: One-half pound of round steak, six good sized onions sliced, two large potatoes sliced, a little salt pork, and a little flour with seasoning.

First cook in the frying pan about three tablespoons of inch long strings of salt pork about an eighth on an inch square, and any suet you may cut from the steak, also cut into tiny slices or blocks, turning them and crisping them slightly. Then put in the onions with the fire rather low, and let them cook a few minutes until about half tender, with the pan closely covered. Then push these to one side of the pan, heaped up, and put in the meat which has been rolled in seasoned flour. Stir and sear it well, add a cup of water, and let the whole cook gently for fifteen minutes, close covered. Pare and slice the potatoes, spread them over the top of the meat and onions, and let them steam soft in the pan well covered—in about twenty minutes—and over a small amount of fire.

When the potatoes are added, look carefully to the liquid in the pan. It should not have cooked away much nor continue to do so to any extent, or the onions will catch on and you will have lost the gravy which you cannot get back by adding water. If dried up, the dish is spoiled.

Happened to Think.

Making Him Jealous.

One of the boys I had been seeing quite regularly was coming over that night, and I got a silly notion in my head that I wanted to make him jealous. Just as he rang the bell I sat down near the telephone, and, holding the hook down with one hand, carried on a conversation with a supposed to be old time sweetheart who was just begging to come over and see me. Everthing was running splendidly when, right in the middle of a sentence when I was saying that "it's all over now," the telephone bell rang. P. S.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

CORA: HOT VINEGAR CAN BE used for removing vermin from the hair. Immerse the head in vinegar as hot as can be borne. Hold it there for about five minutes, then thoroughly shampoo. Usually the first treatment eliminates the trouble. Tincture of larksur is also excellent. It can be procured at any drug or department store with directions for using. A girl 5 feet 2 inches in height at the age of 16 should weigh 117 pounds.

GLADYS: THE COMB THAT IS possessed of best qualities for general use has its teeth smooth and wide apart and the tips blunt. The material of which it is made is not important, so long as the form is correct. I shall be glad to send you my articles on treatment of oily hair infected with dandruff if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

IRENE: A GIRL WITH DARK brown hair and gray eyes can wear jet black, white, dark brown, dull old blues, and pastel tints, dull as well as dark shades of green, pale gray, heliotrope, palest buff yellow and palest pink.

Black Still Holds Sway at Night

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—"O'er the dessert I come to thee"—thus softly sings the black crêpe frock, deftly inserting an extra "s" in the noun of Bayard Taylor's famous Bedouin love song. In the dinner frock black crêpe is still a tremendous favorite. For afternoon wear however, the impulse is toward color. Vivid jeweled green, Pompeian red rust, orchid—these are the tints one notes in the latest crêpes from Paris. Nor is this mood confined to crêpes.

Millinery is coming out in the most brilliant tints. And moires, so conspicuous in early spring offerings from Paris—these come, not in the doleful black, but chiefly in white, rust, and green.

We show above a black crêpe dinner dress trimmed with jet cabochons and with paillettes. This shows the emphasis of the yoke trimming in present day fashions, and its long side drapery is in accord with the best thought on the subject.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Please write on one side of the paper. Address Bright Sayings to Aunty Bee, Tribune, Chicago.

On her fourth birthday Louise was presented with a bull dog, to her great delight, and when bedtime came she insisted that she take her new pet with her.

Next morning she was tired and not in good humor, and her mother said, "Dear, didn't you sleep well last night?"

"No, mummy," said Louise. "Roger was crying all night for his mumsy, so I kept awake with him for company, and I made awful faces all night to make him fink I was his bulldog muvver, just to comfy him." L. K.

Winnie's mother had recently moved into a new neighborhood. One day she was upstairs dressing when the doorbell rang.

"Run and open the door, dear," said mother. "If it's company, let me know and I'll be right down."

Winnie obediently opened the door and gleefully shouted up the stairway, "O, muvver, the doggie next door has come over to visit us, and he brought a lady with him!" F. J.

They were at the dinner table, and aunty passed the fruit. Teddy took a pear but Carry didn't care for any and refused. "Aunty," she wistfully asked: "Isn't it near time for cherries to be born?" F. T.

Random Notes of a Busy Afternoon of One Music Critic

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Random notes of a busy afternoon:

Leopold Godowsky at the Studebaker—The despair of all other pianists when it comes to getting the maximum number of notes into their right places in a given time. His own arrangement of the Johann Strauss "Künstlerleben" waltzes would bother a mechanical inside player to reproduce. It is somewhat overloaded and rather too long, but Mr. Godowsky has the spirit of the dance in his soul. He is going away for a long foreign tour, leaving grateful memories behind him.

The London String quartet at the Blackstone—Heard in "The Pixy-Ring," by H. Waldo Warner, who plays the viola in the organization. The work consists of five little pieces, modern enough to leave one pretty well up in the air harmonically, composed with a good deal of charm and a certain degree of humor and played exquisitely. The fourth number was repeated. In this year of grace 1922 no pixies are resident in Cook county. More's the pity.

Cecile de Horvath at the Grand—A pianist slight of figure, with flaming interpretations which would seem almost to transcend her physical strength, but do not. Heard in César Franck's Prelude, Aria, and Finale, which she played in big, resonant style and with a decisive individuality. Much worth while.

Frederic Dixon at the Cort—Another pianist, an "artist-pupil," seemingly close to the line where he will be more artist than pupil. Began his program with Beethoven's Andante in F and MacDowell's Keltic Sonata and played them well. Is in the possession of efficient hands and a well working if cool brain.

Ethel Jones and William Griffith Hill at the Playhouse—Joint recital. Mr. Hill, whom I had not had the pleasure of hearing before, is a pianist with a personality. Gave a splendid performance of MacDowell's Eroica Sonata—it was an unusually favorable day for MacDowell—also of some pieces by Griffes. Miss Jones, mezzo-soprano, was heard in a group of songs and several encores, mostly lugubrious and all appallingly unimportant. She has a voice, manner, and enunciation of high quality and entitling her to do much more attractive things.

The Civic Orchestra of Chicago at Orchestra hall—An efficient incubator for orchestras, a training camp that takes in young and talented musicians and turns out routined and competent orchestral players. A great achievement for which responsibility is justly due to Frederick Stock, and lately by its own merits becoming popular.

THE CHILDREN AND GEORGE WASHINGTON

More Entries in the Race for $11,650 in The Tribune's Prize for School Children and Teachers.

Here are more of the essays by boys and girls entered in the George Washington prize contest being conducted by The Tribune. The contest closes on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Young America's Ideal.

Many years ago there lived a true soldier, whose leadership a pitiful little army of patriots, disorganized in mass, yet firmly united in spirit, followed through hardships unparalleled to the dawn of our glorious liberty. Putting implicit trust in their beloved leader, they fought with determined will, for they knew their cause was right. The fight was won, not by the strength of numbers, but by the steadfastness in the faith of their seeming experiment.

George Washington, the idol of every young American, was the absolute master of himself; he always maintained a standard of enviable principles, which won for him the grateful love of his people as well as the profound respect of the world. He was a pillar of fire to the rising spirit of liberty—ever ready to fight and to sacrifice for its advancement.

In ages yet to come he will stand the incentive of red blooded men; and as the vision of God righteously leads on the universe, so will the memory of George Washington elevate the standard of American manhood and make it worthy of the flag which protects it.

"Victory or Death."

"I shall marry a beautiful woman; I shall be one of the wealthiest men in the land; I shall lead the army of my colony; I shall rule the nation which I help to create."

Of what splendid stuff was the boy Washington made! The above words, which were spoken when he was but 12 years, are the greatest possible proof of the dauntless determination enclosed in his young heart. Thus he saw the gleam, but merely that did not satisfy him. He followed it!

If Martha Custis was not beautiful she was at least extremely good looking. She was blessed with a dignity and grace unexcelled by any other "first lady."

When the lovely young widow came to Mount Vernon she brought with her a considerable fortune. Although Washington had received a bountiful inheritance, it was his ambition that made him a prosperity magnet, and this, combined with his opulence of character, made him the "wealthiest man in the land."

He kept that quenchless fire of his will continually burning in his breast when he became a commander. The night before crossing the Delaware it is said that he wrote again and again his countersign: "Victory or Death." The answer as to the success of this concentrating is the battle of Trenton.

When the time came for him to rule his country the illusion had rather faded. He accepted the presidency as an already overladen beast accepts a new burden from a beloved master. Yet he did not fail us, and through that unseen force of his safely started the ship of state upon its long and perilous journey.

POSTMISTRESS ACCUSES MATE OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 19.—E. T. Hollingsworth, husband of the postmistress at Fisher, eighteen miles northwest of here, is under arrest pending an investigation to determine what charges shall be filed against him.

His wife caused his arrest, claiming that he assaulted her and took money from the postoffice. Two weeks ago Mrs. Hollingsworth filed suit for divorce and was granted an injunction prohibiting her husband from molesting her.

He claims to have been an assistant in the postoffice and officers doubt if he can be charged with taking money from the office until an accounting is due. Hollingsworth is being held at Fisher and will be taken to the county jail in Urbana.

RAID OPIUM DENS; WOMAN HURT IN WINDOW LEAP

New York, Feb. 19.—Chinatown awoke at dawn today to the sound of pistol volleys and the rending crash of barricaded doors as police raiders stormed a succession of long suspected opium dens.

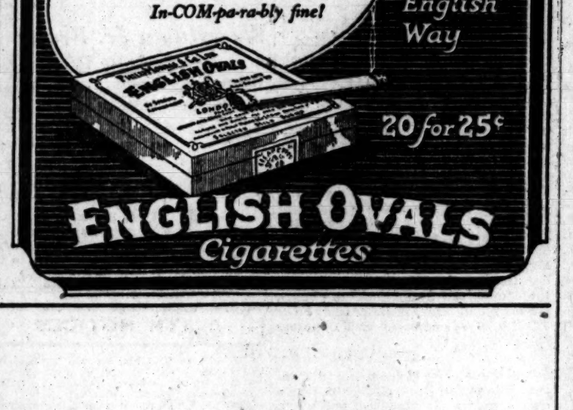

Eight persons were arrested, including a woman whose back was thought to have been broken in a leap from a second story window.

Large quantities of opium, with pipes and other paraphernalia, were confiscated.

The party next descended on an apartment in Mulberry street. Here four prisoners were taken.

INCREASED RAIL LOADINGS TAKEN AS A GOOD SIGN

The New York Times.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Of last week's political or industrial developments with a bearing on the financial future, several were positively favorable, some were favorable in a negative way, one or two others would ordinarily be regarded as unfavorable. The rise in both wheat and corn to the highest prices reached since the crops of 1921 were harvested—representing an advance respectively of 33 and 25 per cent from the low prices of a few weeks ago—is an incident which has relaxed the pressure of hard times on the west as the autumn recovery in cotton prices relaxed it on the south.

Loadings of freight cars on all the railways of the country, which in the last few years have been accurately compiled and reported week by week, and which show a change in the transportation industry before the actual earnings reports can show it, have plainly indicated at least a temporary turn for the better.

Low Loadings in 1921

During the whole of 1921 there was only one week in which these car loadings did not fall below the same week of the preceding year and there were only eight weeks when they did not fall below 1919. In January and February of last year, loadings were something like 350,000 cars less than the previous year and 125,000 less than two years before. Thus far in 1922 they have increased so steadily that the latest weekly figures are almost matching those of 1920 and are running 50,000 to 60,000 cars above 1919.

Even when one allows for the temporary influences which are always at work, such comparisons come as a reminder of the well known fact that never in our railway history since the statistics were compiled has the actual traffic handled by our railways decreased continuously during more than one year after a great financial crisis.

After the panic of 1893 the low level of the period for actual freight transported was that of 1894. In 1895 there occurred a substantial increase and in 1896 all previous records for quantity carried were surpassed.

Drop Again in 1908.

After 1907 the low yearly aggregate occurred in 1908. By 1910 a new maximum had been reached. The explanation is not difficult. In each case the halt in consumption of necessities by the American people was for the time being so complete that it could not last, and when the people's purchases were resumed the lost ground had to be made up.

In the periods referred to railways' revenues did not always rise with the same rapidity as tonnage. That was because of lowered rates. But the problem which has beset the companies during the present era of depression—actual absence of the normal movement of merchandise over the country's railways—ceased to exist.

Effect of Export Made Drop.

The news of last week, which would certainly, under the old order of things, have been looked upon as discouraging, was the statement of our export trade. In the first few months after the armistice, the markets heard a good deal of prediction that our enormous wartime surplus of exports would have to come down rapidly. It did not come down; in 1919 it was nearly a billion dollars greater than in the last year of the war.

But even in armistice days few of the prophets contemplated reduction of our monthly export surplus three years afterward, to smaller figures than before the war. In the three months ending with last January, that surplus of exports was not only less by a billion dollars than in the year preceding, but was actually $80,000,000 less than in the three months ending with January, 1913. In four out of nine years before the war the January surplus was substantially larger than that of January, 1922.

Three Ways to Regard It.

There are several ways in which this phenomenon may be regarded; for instance, as a mere temporary incident of European trade depression; as a warning of future depression because of the cutting off of the foreign outlet for our industrial products, or as representing Europe's effort to recover a sound position in international finance through building up her own export surplus as a means of paying the international trade indebtedness which the war has heaped up against her.

To a certain point there is something to be said for all three interpretations. We shall certainly increase our exports to Europe when European industry revives. We possess materials, such as cotton and copper, of which European countries like France and England are now importing from us barely 60 per cent of what they took before the war. These shipments will necessarily be resumed.

Prospects for Future.

How far we shall regain our pre-war position as exporter of finished goods to Europe is a more difficult question: the probability is that we shall export certain products in which our manufacturing skill excels and import in greater quantity than before others which can be made better in Europe than in the United States. But that in the long run the surplus of exports will be vastly different from what it was before the war, it is impossible to doubt. Much of the European debt to the United States will be funded into bonds and sold to American investors; but even so, Europe must provide for the annual interest payment.

MEXICO CUTS 60% OFF TAXES OF U. S. OIL COMPANIES

Mexico City, Feb. 19.—[By the Associated Press.]—The basis upon which the heads of the American oil companies last September reached an agreement with the Mexican government relative to the payment of export taxes under the decree of June 7, were divulged today in the outline of a decree given out by Minister of the Treasury de la Huerta. The decree takes only the signature of President Obregon to become effective.

The project contemplates the payment of 40 per cent of the tax as originally imposed by the June decree, and means the payment to the Mexican treasury of approximately 13,500,000 pesos.

The Denver Gas & Electric Light Company

First and Refunding Mortgage Sinking Fund 5% Gold Bonds

Denominations $1,000, $500 and $100 — Due May 1, 1951

Price 85½ and Accrued Interest, to Yield About 6.10%

Redeemable as a whole or in part at 105 and accrued interest on any interest date upon four weeks published notice. Interest payable without deduction for Federal Income Tax now or hereafter deductible at the source, not in excess of 2%. The Company agrees to refund, as to the bonds now being offered, the Pennsylvania Four-Mills Tax to holders residing in that State. Application will be made to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Denver Gas and Electric Light Company is generally recognized as one of the firmly established and most successful public service corporations in the United States. It supplies, without competition, electric light and power, artificial gas and central station steam heating service in the city of Denver and sells electric energy at wholesale for distribution in a number of its suburbs. The population of the territory served is estimated at 300,000. The Company was incorporated under the laws of the State of Colorado in 1909, but the gas business had its inception through predecessor companies in 1869 and the electric business in 1881.

These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are secured by an absolute First Mortgage Lien on a substantial part of the property, including over 70% of the Company's electric generating capacity, and are further secured by a direct mortgage lien on the balance of the property subject to only $6,336,900 (mortgages closed at $7,271,900) principal amount of Divisional Bonds outstanding with the public.

The mortgage provides for a Sinking Fund calling for annual payments to the Trustee of 1% of the outstanding amount of First and Refunding Bonds or expenditures for additions and improvements equal to 2% of these bonds outstanding.

The Company's operating properties are in excellent physical condition and their reproduction value, as estimated in 1920 by independent engineers, together with the cost of additional construction to date is largely in excess of the total funded indebtedness. The Preferred and Common Stocks represent a large investment junior to the funded indebtedness and both classes of stock are receiving dividends at the rate of 6% per annum.

Gross earnings increased from $3,115,748 for the calendar year 1911 to $5,601,664 for 1921, or an increase of about 80%. For the calendar year 1921, net operating revenue amounted to $1,960,589, as compared with annual interest requirements on the total bonded debt outstanding with public, including the present issue, of $849,695.

These bonds are offered for delivery when, as, and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. Temporary bonds, or interim receipts later exchangeable for definitive bonds, will be ready for delivery on or about February 27, 1922. All statements herein are official or are based on information which we regard as reliable, and, while we do not guarantee them, they are the data upon which we have acted in the purchase of this security.

WORLD'S WHEAT PRICES HIGHEST OF THE SEASON

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices and practically all grains are at about the highest of the season, with indications of an irregular advance, as the tendency of the world's grain values appears to be upward.

The wheat situation is the most interesting the trade has known. It is a world's proposition, and the advance in prices in all markets is based on the unusually close adjustment of supplies to requirements.

There has been a reduction in supplies of Canada, Argentina and Australia of approximately 75,000,000 bu from the early estimated surplus which brings that of the world down to a probable carry over of 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 bu, which is entirely too small considering present crop prospects in leading countries. Under such conditions values are responding to the light offerings and a readjustment of futures to cash markets is under way.

Declines Are Short Lived.

As close students view the wheat situation the action of prices in Chicago or any other of the American markets or Winnipeg in declining is only a temporary local condition, which does not affect the world's situation. While declines are to be expected every few days, they are not regarded as likely to last. An advance of almost 40c in May wheat from the low point in November to the highest of the season last week, $1.42⅝, has been made with comparatively few reactions.

Prices for May wheat have moved up 25c in about three weeks with the largest recession 8⅝c from the high point, which was followed by a good rally. Profit taking has been on all the way up with offerings absorbed so readily that the average trader has been unable fully to comprehend the breadth and character of the market. They have expected big reactions only to see values drop 1 or 2c and then rally on renewed buying. Foreign markets have advanced sharply and the appreciation in foreign exchange has also enabled foreigners to get more for their money.

Foreign Stocks Low.

Foreigners have allowed their stocks of wheat and flour to run down and they are unusually small. Russia is taking wheat from the United States and Argentina, and it is estimated that more than 50 per cent of the 92,000,000 bu new crop surplus of Argentina has already been sold for export. Australia and Canada have also sold a large percentage of their surplus, and the United States is regarded as on a domestic basis and every bushel hereafter sold for export reduces the possible carry over July 1.

Milling demand has not followed the advance in wheat as much as it should, because flour buyers have been afraid to stock up. From present indications they have held off too long and will probably come in around the top as they frequently do.

The movement of wheat continues above the average, owing to the advanced prices, and primary receipts last week of 6,088,000 bu were 541,000 bu in excess of last year. All the Canadian wheat at eastern lake ports has been disposed of, and Canadian wheat is moving both east and westward from Winnipeg for export, and authorities there say that the shipments for domestic and export requirements are about equal to the weekly receipts.

Crop Outlook Unfavorable.

One of the most important factors in the wheat situation from now on is the crop outlook in the southwest, where drouth prevails over the greater part of the largest producing sections where the surplus is raised. In the middle west the crop is in fair to good condition, with some loss from thawing, freezing, and heaving. Unless good rains come in the near future, crop conditions are expected to become worse rapidly. In Europe conditions are spotted. Russia is not expected to have any more grain than it actually needs for consumption this year, and from present indications the world's production is not regarded as likely to be above requirements. With no reserves the world over, good prices should be assured for the next twelve months.

February wheat sold Saturday at 6c under May. The May closed at $1.40¼@1.40⅝, up 7⅝c, and July $1.23⅝@1.23¾, up 5⅝c for the week. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Has Great Possibilities.

The corn market is regarded as possessing unusual possibilities. With wheat advancing and foreigners taking cash corn freely, with prospects of their continuing, the general impression of the trade is that corn has been too low, and that values should work considerably higher. Argentina sold its old corn and Europe is dependent upon America for supplies the next few months, as the new Argentine crop will not be available until May, their crop year starting with May, or six months difference from the United States.

Corn is being distributed over the widest territory known. In December the 10,242,000 bu exported from the United States went to forty-one different countries, of which The Netherlands took 4,026,000 bu. There was also 61,264 brls of corn flour, grits, and meal exported at the same time to about thirty-five countries. This shows a great range of consumption.

Domestic Consumption Heavy.

Domestic consumption of corn on the farms is heavy, as the government report showed about 900,000 more hogs on the farms Jan. 1 than last year. Feeding is extensive, and in many sections they are paying as much if not more than are the shippers. There has been an immense movement from the farms since Nov. 1, primary receipts showing 150,988,000 bu up to date, compared with 84,606,000 bu last year. In two weeks the aggregate is about 30,000,000 bu, and the impression is that farmers will sell less corn from now on and in about two weeks the movement from elevators will be greatly reduced.

Stocks of corn are heavy, the visible supply being the largest in years. There has been so much corn moved from the farms that it is well for producers to stop and think of the future and use a little common horse sense. Should the acreage this year be reduced and the season for the new crop unfavorable, some of the scientists predicting a drouth year, it would be well for farmers to have a fair supply of corn on hand for actual requirements.

Corn prices are up to the highest of the season, and the market is carrying a big line of hedges. When export sales are made it is necessary to remove the hedge, which helps to sustain or advance values.

May corn closed Saturday at 62½@62⅝c, up 3½c for the week; July, 64½c, up 3¼c; September, 66½c, up 2½c. Prices follow:

Longs Take Profits in Oats.

The main feature in oats was the advance in sympathy with the other grains, which was taken advantage of by numerous large holders who have been in the market for a long time to secure profits. Offerings were well absorbed and prices moved up 3⅝c from the low point of the previous week to within 3¼c of the high point of May for the season and closed with net gains of ¾c to 1⅝c. Shipping and export business improved, and there were export orders here for fair sized lots at the close.

Provisions Are Advanced.

Provision prices advanced and closed within a fraction of the highest of the week. Increased speculative buying, while in a measure offset by liberal selling for profits by packers and holders, was well absorbed.

Hogs sold up to $10.50, the highest of the season and the week's average of $9.90 was 40c higher than the previous week, and 65c above last year's.

A little export and a fair domestic business was on. Hams and bellies brought ½c advance or more. Hog supplies at western markets for the week were 627,000, against 589,000 the previous week and 674,000 last year. Lard stocks decreased 900,000 lbs. since Feb. 1, and are less than half of last year's.

Pork closed with a gain of 95c for the week, lard is up 77½@80c and short ribs 87½c@$1.12½ for the week. Prices for the week follow:

SEE GOOD TIMES AS FARMERS PAY BACK U. S. LOANS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—An improvement in agricultural conditions manifesting itself in repayments of loans made by the war finance corporation was noted today by Eugene Meyer Jr., managing director of the corporation. Mr. Meyer cited figures in support of his statement.

"Repayments from Jan. 1 to Feb. 15 on account of agricultural and live stock loans aggregate $3,671,000," Mr. Meyer said. "Of this amount, $2,877,000 was repaid by banking institutions, $347,000 by live stock loan companies, and $446,000 by cooperative associations.

"All repayments have been voluntary—and a considerable part of the total represents repayments before due dates."

It challenges any other Old Line Legal Reserve Life Insurance Company to show a record that will equal this as to kinds and amount of insurance issued and paid for in the same length of time, first 22 months, operating as a going company.

This Company has more stockholders, citizens of Chicago, than any and all other Life Insurance Companies that are incorporated under the laws of Illinois, making good on the motto TO DO THE MOST GOOD FOR THE MOST PEOPLE. It is big enough to be little enough to say that it does not want you to watch it grow, but IT DOES WANT YOU TO HELP IT GROW.

Every new policyholder adds strength to any company—making them stronger by putting them into better position of being able to help the policyholders in their old age time or take care of their beneficiaries when they pass on.

We want you as a policyholder in this Company that is properly named—the Company of Endowments for the Public.

Any information regarding the Company will be gladly furnished upon request to the Home Office.

The Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company

To the Holders of First and Refunding 5% Bonds;

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit issued by Bankers Trust Company representing such First and Refunding 5% Bonds:

The Plan for Reorganization of The Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Company dated January 27, 1922, was (as it states) proposed to the so-called Hammond Committee by the Western Pacific Railroad Corporation. Vigorous efforts are being made to force this Plan on the Denver Bondholders before March 1, 1922. ANY DEPOSITOR WITH THE HAMMOND COMMITTEE WHO DOES NOT FILE NOTICE OF DISSENT PROMPTLY IS BOUND TO THAT PLAN.

The undersigned Committee strongly opposes forcing through any plan, and in particular the plan so frankly proposed in the interest of Western Pacific, without proper opportunity for investigation of its fairness or for ascertaining whether better terms are available from others than Western Pacific.

The Western Pacific offers to buy the February 1, 1922, coupon, but only from those bondholders WHO NOW IRREVOCABLY CONSENT to the Western Pacific Plan, and thereby lose any chance to withdraw their bonds from the Hammond Committee and get better terms in the future. By this small expenditure per bond the Western Pacific hopes to secure complete control of the bonds.

The Hammond Committee, in a public advertisement, has also stated that if the Western Pacific Plan be not accepted by March 1 next the Plan may be withdrawn. Neither method of forcing the Plan through should succeed. The offer to buy the coupon is not attractive enough and the withdrawal of the Western Pacific Plan would clear the way for a reorganization solely in the interest of the Refunding Bonds.

The Hammond Committee has been in existence five years, and during that time has been acting with the Western Pacific. On February 1 last the Western Pacific permitted default in the interest on the Refunding Bonds. They have chosen the moment to make this default (and the time of default is entirely a matter of their choosing), when the Denver property has as yet not fully recovered from the serious Colorado flood damage of 1921 and when general railroad earnings are at the lowest point, in their endeavor to force the bondholders into accepting this Plan by which the bondholders turn one-half of their holdings into preferred stock and permit a new mortgage ahead of the bonds. For that concession the bondholders are offered no guarantee of any kind, the only consideration to be given by Western Pacific being a payment to the Denver Company of certain moneys and property over a series of years. Of such payments it is to be noted that $2,925,000 is to be paid to the Denver property only if the Courts decide that the money does not belong to the Denver property anyway, and $1,000,000 is to be paid in the shape of an equity in a realty company, and certain of the other payments are conditional.

And it is to be further noted that the Plan proposes no limitation to the amount of money which the Western Pacific may, as holder of new common stock, in case the Plan succeeds, draw out of the Denver Company. If the earnings of the Denver in the future increase at the rate they have increased for the past two decades the Western Pacific will in a comparatively few years recoup all the money which it now offers to the Denver.

Such a Plan might be justified if the Denver property, in spite of its splendid record of earnings for the past twenty years, had suddenly lost its future earning power and its strategic value and if in addition Western Pacific were the only logical possessor of the property. The undersigned Committee is convinced that such is not the case and that the Western Pacific Plan cannot be forced through.

The undersigned Committee is an independent Committee organized after the publication of the Western Pacific Plan. It has reasons for its belief that terms better than the proposed Western Pacific Plan can be obtained. The Committee is in no way bound to any railroad and has declined to approve any offer or to commit itself to any negotiations until the Committee has had time to satisfy itself as to the value of the property and as to what terms are fair and wise.

The undersigned Committee advises that holders of CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT OF BANKERS TRUST COMPANY (the Depositary of the Hammond Committee) should at once and in any event before February 27, 1922, either

(1) deposit their Certificates of Deposit (issued by Bankers Trust Company) with The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, Depositary for the undersigned Committee, or any of its Sub-Depositaries. In that case the undersigned Committee will dissent on behalf of such deposits from the Western Pacific Plan, or

(2) in the event they are unwilling at this time to deposit with the undersigned Committee, file at once with the Bankers Trust Company notices of dissent from the Western Pacific Plan.

The undersigned Committee urges all holders of FIRST AND REFUNDING BONDS to deposit their bonds promptly with The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, Depositary, or any of its Sub-Depositaries, and the Committee now extends the time limit for such deposit until April 1, 1922.

LOW PRICES FOR HORSES LESSEN TRACTOR SALES

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Not many years ago Illinois farmers considered the tractor "the rich farmer's toy," but today there are more than 23,000 of them in this state. They are gradually becoming an essential part of the farm equipment, aiding in the cultivation of crops and the preparation of feeds.

If a snapshot of Illinois could be taken from an airplane it would show tractors on farms in every corner of the state. They are to be found on every type of farm over the long stretch of land from the dairy and truck farms of northern Illinois, across the typical corn belt farming area in the central part, to the orchards and small grain farms over the coal fields in the extreme southern point of the state, 350 miles away.

Asks How It Will Aid Him?

Tractors have been in this state long enough so that farmers have had a chance to put them to severe and practical tests on their own farms. The average farmer cares little about how a tractor will perform in some field near the state or county fair ground; he is interested in knowing what he can do with it on his own farm and under conditions that are peculiar to his own land and farm management policies.

Whether farmers own a tractor or not most all of them have their ideas about where the tractor belongs on the average farm today. None of them are willing to say that Illinois farmers have reached the point where they can get along without horses. Horses are, of course, more essential on farms where corn is the main crop than they are on fruit, small grain and dairy farms. Tests are now being made by farmers in this state to find out for themselves if it is practical and profitable to run their farms by machinery alone, depending on the tractor to furnish the power and doing away with the horse entirely. The average farmer in this state shakes his head at the horseless-farming idea and is emphatic in his statements that corn belt farmers at least will never reach the stage where they can get along without the horse.

Farmers Lack Capital.

Money is scarce among the farmers and hard to get because their credit has been seriously impaired. In spite of this fact the recent upward trend of the prices of many farm products, especially cattle and hogs, has had much to do with uplifting the farmers' "spirits," and bankers and agricultural leaders over the state believe this will have much to do with the number of tractors sold this spring.

In every part of the state farmers are grumbling about the price of gasoline, oil, mechanical labor and repairs. They consider that tractors are now selling at a fairly reasonable price compared with the prices they are getting for their products, but it is a general belief among corn raisers that they can do their work this season with teams much cheaper than they can with tractors unless operating costs come down or the price of corn and other products come up.

The low prices offered for horses is preventing many farmers from buying tractors this spring. It is generally understood among farmers that they must get rid of from two to four horses before they are justified in buying a tractor, and with the average farm work horse selling from $60 to $150 comparatively few in the corn belt were willing to sell their horses and buy tractors until the price of tractors was reduced.

Size of Farm Important.

With more diversified and more intensive farming in this state the size of farms where the tractor can be used profitably likely will be reduced. As farming is done today, however, the average farmer in the corn belt says he cannot make a tractor pay on much less than 160 acres of land. On dairy and fruit farms the acreage can be much less than that. Many farmers who are cultivating peach orchards or growing feed for dairy cows say they can make the tractor pay on eighty acre farms.

The corn belt farmer uses the tractor for drawbar work chiefly. Up to this time the tractor has been seriously handicapped in the corn growing districts because the farmer has had to keep his teams to cultivate the corn. With the new types of tractors now being made so they can be used in cultivating corn, farmers say they will be able to eliminate many of their horses. They will have a tendency to stimulate the progress of the tractor especially among farmers whose principal crop is corn.

Operators Prove Scarce.

Farm labor is another factor which is causing much comment among farmers in considering the buying of a tractor. Not every man can run a tractor, farmers say. Practically all of the tractors are now being operated by the farmer or his son. The average farm laborer cannot always be trusted to run a tractor. Farmers who have to hire much of their help say that almost any laborer who comes along can drive a team, but there are very few of them who are able to operate a tractor. On the other hand, farmers cannot afford to pay a skilled mechanic $1 to $1.25 an hour to run a tractor when he can hire men for $1.50 to $1.75 a day to drive a team.

BUSINESS NEWS IN BRIEF

[Copyright: 1922: By Fairchild News Service.]

LAWRENCE, Mass.—Arlington Mills plants have shut down until Thursday for lack of orders, say officials. Operatives, however, speculate on a spread of wage cuts to the woolen industry.

PHILADELPHIA. — Prominent commission house declares day is past when jobbers will contract for whole year's requirements of knit goods merchandise. He predicts close market until raw material prices are adjusted to finished product quotations.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Formal conferences concerning a renewal of the pact between Rochester clothing manufacturers and Amalgamated Clothing workers probably will begin this week.

PATERSON, N. J.—Broad silk manufacturers expect "big white year" and are producing goods accordingly. White cantons and heavy crêpes de chine are especially wanted.

BELFAST.—Immediate delivery orders rapidly are absorbing linen stocks. New York jobber, who some months ago declared he could buy continental cream damask cheaper than he could in Belfast, now is cabling orders here.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—About 100* smaller Buffalo merchants are ready to pool their orders through newly organized Merchants and Manufacturers' Trade Extension bureau, semi-coöperative. Move was taken to compete with chain store prices.

LONDON.—Several additional Scottish woolen manufacturers started operating full time last week. No connection between this report and recent visit to the American markets of the Scottish manufacturers is drawn in London.

NEW YORK.—The product of thirty mills, comprising all the overcoatings and woolen suitings, was withdrawn from sale by the American Woolen company at the close of business on Saturday. The product also comprises some lines of women's wear coatings and suitings.

NEW YORK.—There was better spirit in the gray goods market on Saturday, although the 38½ inch, 64x60, 5.35 yards to the pound, lost the eighth cent it had gained on Friday and sold at 7⅞ cents. Most mills, however, continued to ask 8 cents and 10¾ cents for 39 inch, 80x80, 4.00 yard, some of which sold at 10½ cents. The 39 inch, 72x76, 4.25 yard, sold at 10 cents, and 9 cents remained the market for 39 inch, 68x72, 4.75 yard.

LONDON BOOM IN GOOD SECURITIES CHEERS MARKET

BY MANFRED EMANUEL.

[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Cheerful conditions of the previous week was much accentuated in the London stock exchange during the last few days and the "safety first" movement has ended in a veritable rush for good securities. The demand was stimulated by the withdrawal of treasury bonds on tap and though the Irish developments at one time were unfavorable, reductions in the bank rate to 4½ per cent gave the upward movement further impetus. The general positions, of course, revived on talk of a big funding loan.

The market was once again secured by the fair bulk of business passed and prices showed a further appreciation, the close being decidedly buoyant. Indian stocks rallied well. Allied securities were naturally benefited and recent issues in this section have given holders handsome profits.

Foreign government bonds also eventually came in for a fair amount of attention. The new Seine issue established a good premium, while Argentine and Chinese stocks rose materially. The Siam issue was an instantaneous success.

Industrials were generally idle, this section being still unsettled from day to day by the publication of poor reports. Harrods and Selfridge's results were considered fair, but the quotation was lower. Tobaccos almost exceptionally continue firm with Imperials considered a "safe" holding.

TIRE REPAIRING will boom—car owners will now be forced to guard every last mile in their tires, and SPOT PATCHING, SECTIONAL WORK, and RETREADING will take the place of factory adjustments.

This business will come from 9,700,000 cars, making approximately 50,000,000 tires to keep in repair.
